FOREWORD

It has been my purpose to make this book a record of that branch of the Lord family which is represented by the ancestors and descendants of Lieutenant Tobias Lord, and his two wives, Mehitable Scammon and Hephzibah Conant, together with what data could be found regarding their births, marriages, and deaths, and also biographical sketches.

My intention and wish has been to pay a tribute to the earlier generations now gone and those that are passing away, and to preserve these interesting records for succeeding generations of the family before it became too late to collect such data.

The author desires to call attention to the list of corrections and additions on page 159. As part of the book went to press more than a year ago, there were some errors made in dates, and afterward corrected; therefore in most cases where are found discrepancies in dates referring to the same person, the latter is probably correct. In other cases the difference is due to the change in the Calendar as shown in the Note following. In some few cases errors of dates were inevitable, owing to a difference of memory in various members of a family.

I desire to express my gratitude to Mr. William E. Barry for his able assistance in the preparation of a number of the biographical sketches, and of the maps of Kennebunk Village and Kennebunk Landing; and to Mr. C. C. Lord's book on the Lord family, for some statistical information as to the ancestors of Tobias Lord. Also I wish to express my appreciation of the kindly help and interest received from those of the family with whom I have been in correspondence during the preparation of this work.

CHARLES E. LORD.

LAUDHOLM, NEWTON, MASS.,
December, 1912.

NOTE

By an Act of Parliament passed January 22, 1752, the old style by which the year commenced March 25, was abolished, and the new style beginning the year January 1st, was introduced, and eleven days struck from the Calendar, making September 3, the 14th.

On the public records, a long time previous to this Act, events occurring between January 1 and March 25, were recorded as happening in a double year.

PRIVATE SIGNAL OF GEORGE C. LORD & CO.

BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCHES

ANCESTORS OF LIEUT. TOBIAS LORD

NATHAN LORD, the Immigrant,

Is thought to have been born in the County of Kent, Eng., about 1603, and probably came to this country with Abraham Conly, whose daughter Judith was his first wife. This was before 1640. He is first mentioned as a signer to the submission to Massachusetts in 1652.

He doubtless lived with Conly near Cold Harbor, and later, after his marriage to Martha Everett, his second wife, in the lower part of Berwick, Me. This place is called "Mount Misery" in a deed, referring probably to Rocky Hill — called also Craggy Hill, — belonging to a region named "Old Fields," near the Great Works River. Here he had a garrison house, long since demolished. He bought twenty-five acres of land from John Neal in 1662, and nine acres from Richard Nason in 1664.

He married first, about 1653–54, Judith Conly, who was probably the mother of the first two children, Nathan, Jr., and Abraham, and took for his second wife, Martha Everett, sister or daughter of William Everett of Kittery, who was born in 1640. She bore him five children, Martha, Samuel, Sarah, Anne and Benjamin. He died at South Berwick about 1690.

ABRAHAM CONLY, the Immigrant,

Father-in-law of Nathan Lord, Sr., probably came over from England about 1630. He was one of the townsmen or selectmen of Kittery in 1651, and signed the submission to Massachusetts in 1652.

William Everett, the Immigrant,

Father of Martha Everett, who became the second wife of Nathan Lord, Sr., appears in Court records of 1640, and was licensed to keep an ordinary in 1649. He seems to have been a sea captain and to have been lost at sea. It was at his house that on November 16, 1652, all the inhabitants of Kittery were called together to hear Simon Bradstreet and others tell why they ought to come under the jurisdiction of Massachusetts. Everett's son William[2] also died at sea.

William Everett lived on what has been known as Leighton's Point, formerly "Point Joslain." Its southerly shore once extended out fifty feet or more from the present bank, and an old cellar could be seen, not many years ago, just out from the bank, which is supposed to be the site of his house. A ferry formerly crossed the river at this point. The location is still more clearly indicated by the following testimony: —

> The testimony of Martha Lord, aged 84 years or thereabouts, saith that her father, William Everett, formerly of Kittery in the County of York, deceased, did in his lifetime dwell on a tract of land in Kittery aforesaid, now in the possession of Capt. John Leighton, and that said Everett's house stood by an old orchard, and a certain run of water issuing into the Piscataqua River, which run of water is Northward from the most Northerly point of Watt's Fort, so called, which house my mother lived in and possessed after the Death of my sd father untill she married with Isaac Nash, and they sold the same to Mr. William Leighton.
> She further saith that her father died about 72 years since.
> York, s. s., March 18, 1723–4.

Renald Jenkins testified in 1683 that "between 40 and 50 years since" that is, earlier than 1643, he bought "six acres of Land of John Newgrove beginning at the waterside between the lands of Thomas Joanes and Joshua Downing." Jenkins built a house and lived here for a while, and after the death of William Everett offered the place to his widow, in the charity of his heart; but at the age of 42, her daughter Martha, afterwards Nathan Lord's wife, testified: —

When she was little her mother having ten shillings of her, as the Deponant heard my mother say, which money the Deponent's mother Margaret Everett layed out for six acres of Land which she bought of Renald Jenkins, which Land this Deponent's husband would not accept of, upon y^e^ refusall wrof the Deponent's mother gave him a steere in lew yrof and her mother sold that six acres of Land to Mr. Will Leighton.

Widow Everett did not remain long in affliction, for in 1656 she and her second husband, "Isacke Nash" of Dover, sold to William Leighton this six acre lot and also the original homestead of William Everett, a little further up the river.

John Newgrove sold also to Abraham Conly a six acre lot just above this of Jenkins, January 1, 1638. Conly was already a tenant; he sold it June 24, 1648, to Thomas Joanes. It was "next adjacent unto House and Field of William Everett."

Richard Tozier, Sr., the Immigrant,

Was married at Boston, Mass., July 3, 1656, by Richard Bellingham, Deputy Governor, to Judith Smith. He was in Kittery, Me., as early as 1659, where he was killed by the Indians October 16, 1675. His widow Judith died prior to June 18, 1683, when her son, Richard, Jr., was appointed administrator.

In 1659 the town granted to Richard Tozier 60 acres "adjoining to William Pyle's lott above the Salmon falls." Here he had a garrison house which was standing until within fifty years. The house occupied by Charles Collins now marks its site. Nathan Lord, Jr., who married Martha Tozier, lived here.

King Philip's War broke out in June, 1675. It began in Plymouth Colony, but soon was raging all along the New England frontier. An attack was made upon the house of Richard Tozier while he was absent. Fifteen persons were in the house, and the door was held by a girl of 18. The Indians broke in and left her for dead (she lived however for several years afterwards), but most of the others had escaped. October 16, 1675, the house was again assailed by one hundred Indians and was burned to the ground. Tozier was killed, and his son Thomas was either killed or carried off captive.

Richard Tozier's children were: — Thomas Tozier, born May 5, 1657; Richard Tozier, Jr., born about 1660, married Elizabeth Wentworth; Simon Tozier became of Watertown Farms (now Weston), and died December 30, 1718; one of his children married Experience Jackson of Newton; Elizabeth Tozier married 1st, —— Blanchant; 2d, Richard Randall; Martha Tozier married Nathan Lord, Jr.; John Tozier, born about 1665.

Richard Tozier's first child, Thomas Tozier, was born in Boston, and it was probably soon after that time that he removed to Dover, N. H., where he was taxed at Cocheco in 1659. He probably soon crossed into Berwick, as there is no record of any grant of land to him in Dover, and he was taxed but once. He had a grant of land in Kittery October 16, 1659, apparently the place at which he lived in the Berwick part of Kittery, and it is probable all his children except the first were born there.

Mark Symonds, the Immigrant,

Of Ipswich, Mass., was born in England in 1584, and died April 23, 1659, aged 75 years. His wife, Joanna, died April 25, 1660.

After the death of his daughter, Mary (Symonds) Chapman, he left by will certain pieces of land for the benefit of his grandchildren, which caused their father, Edward Chapman, a great deal of trouble in his efforts to keep it, and divide it equally among them in connection with his own property.

His daughter, Mary, married Edward Chapman in March, 1642, at Rowley. She died June 10, 1658.

Edward Chapman, the Immigrant,

Miller and farmer, came from Yorkshire, Eng., near Hull, and is supposed to have landed in Boston about 1639. He married Mary, daughter of Mark and Joanna Symonds, and the mother of his five children, in March, 1642, at Rowley. She died June 10, 1658.

In 1644 he was a grantee of Ipswich, Mass. In his last days Edward Chapman had some trouble with his son, Nathaniel. Mark Symonds, his father-in-law, had left with him in trust certain lands which were to be given to his children when they became of age. In September, 1667, after he had given his son John some land, Nathaniel sued his father for his share of the legacy left by his grandfather Symonds. By mutual consent the land was divided into five equal portions, and Nathaniel was allowed with the other children to choose his share according to birth. Some of the children left their shares in possession of their father until his death. When he made his will, April 9, 1678, he gave Nathaniel another equal share of his property, 30 pounds. Edward Chapman died April 18, 1678.

Nathaniel Chapman, son of Edward Chapman,

Carpenter and house-wright, married December 30, 1674, Mary Wilborn, born at Boston, October 30, 1657, and was living in 1702, and probably twenty-five years later. This marriage was a source of great anxiety to his aged father, who died four years afterwards.

In 1681 he bought a house in Hog Lane, Ipswich, but probably worked at his trade in different places. His daughter Mary married John Lord, grandfather of Lieut. Tobias Lord, December 26, 1716.

James Smith, the Immigrant,

Had a grant of fifty acres of land in 1669. He was living in Berwick in 1668. He married Martha Wills, daughter of Thomas and Mary (Wadell) Wills of Exeter, Eng. She was born in Bristol, Eng., January 18, 1653.

John Smith, son of James Smith,

Married Elizabeth ——, and lived in Berwick, Me. He was born July 26, 1685, and was taken captive with his mother by the Indians November 18, 1690, and carried to Montreal, where he was baptized May 3, 1693.

His daughter Jane, baptized November 12, 1727, married Capt. Tobias Lord, and was the mother of Lieut. Tobias Lord. She died May 20, 1817, at Kennebunkport.

Capt. Tobias Lord, of Arundel, Me.,

Was of the fourth generation from Nathan Lord, forbear of this branch of the family, planter and freeman of Kittery; and was the son of John and Mary (Chapman) Lord.

Tobias was born at the Rocky Hill farm in Berwick, Me., near Kittery, in 1724. He was a farmer by occupation, and at about the age of eighteen married Jane Smith, daughter of Elder John and Elizabeth Smith, who was one year younger. Following the customs of the time he removed to the eastward in 1747 with his wife and family, and cousin Benjamin Lord, locating on "the upper way" in Arundel, on land purchased of one Jeremiah Folsom, an early comer to that locality. The region had been open for settlement in 1728. At the time of the migration of the Lord family it was not wholly a wilderness, having ceased to be a frontier town, and although numbering not more than 300 inhabitants, the county of York contained over 12,000. This "way," after having been styled "the Saco path," was laid out as a post road in 1732. Some twenty years after the settlement of Tobias Lord, this post road was surveyed from Boston to Falmouth (now Portland), and mile-stones placed.

To-day we may still view with interest the spot chosen by Tobias Lord and his cousin Benjamin, upon which to build their defensible house. A more modern dwelling — though not of recent date — later existed on the site of Tobias and Benjamin Lord's garrison house, or perhaps the garrison house was itself changed and improved. It was a pitch-roofed structure with an ell at the eastern end, parallel with the front of the main building which faced the post road. It had a large chimney, a front door in the centre with hall and stairs within, a large room on either side, and bedroom and pantry in the rear. Sliding window shutters and high wooden mantels were part of the fittings. The frame was of hard wood with braces hewn flat on one side, while bark adhered to the other. There is a tradition among the older residents of the place that when the frame of the building was being raised the Indians were annoying, and that shots were made by them at the workmen.

We may now view Tobias the settler as a prosperous farmer and also a manufacturer of bricks, with a hardy family of eight sons and four daughters growing up around him ; while his energetic wife, notwithstanding her household duties, thought but little of bridling her horse and riding at night, sometimes in a snowstorm, to visit some sick friend whose house was several miles distant. The community was a growing one, and in 1764 numbered 838 persons.

On November 14, 1773, Tobias Lord and two other persons were chosen as delegates from Arundel to the County Congress at York, to consider measures for the peace and welfare of the said County of York. In 1775 we find him as a Lieutenant in one of the two companies of militia organized in the town. Tobias Lord's name appears on the Sea Coast Defence, Revolutionary muster rolls, with the rank of Captain in the York County Company, established January 1, 1776, which served at Falmouth Neck until November 25th the same year, by reenlistment every two or three months. The Captain was accompanied by his son Dominicus as personal attendant, and Daniel Lord, his fourth son, was a private in the Company. This service being well acquitted, its Captain was later called upon with three other townsmen to serve as a member of the Committee of Safety in 1778, and in 1780 he was one of the four selectmen of Arundel.

Capt. Tobias Lord had six sons in the Revolutionary Army at different times during the war. The elder ones, John and Tobias, were Lieutenants. Nathaniel was a private, and with Col. Benedict Arnold at Quebec, where he was wounded, and died in prison. There were also the two sons previously named, and Jeremiah, who was a private, and did not live to see the end of the war.

The times of stress being past, Capt. Tobias Lord removed to a new house which he had built one-eighth of a mile from his early home, although on the farm and post road. This later home of the family was of the same general plan as the former, but of larger dimensions. On the opposite side of the road was the barn, which is still standing.

In 1763 Capt. Tobias Lord was numbered among the "Proprietors" of Arundel. This title was applied to all of those persons who had directly purchased land of Thomas Gorges or Sir Alexander Rigby, owner of the Plough Patent, which included Arundel; or who were inhabitants when President Danforth of Massachusetts gave the Trustee deed to the people of this region, or who had inherited or purchased land of such descendants. Consequently the Proprietors considered themselves as owners of all undivided lands in the town, and held them for sale — advertised their regular meetings, possessed a book and appointed their Recording Clerk.

Tobias Lord died January 9, 1809, at the age of eighty-five years, and was buried in a lot near the homestead of his daughter Elizabeth. His widow, Jane Lord, survived him about eight years and was then laid beside him. Their daughter Elizabeth and various members of the family besides were buried in the same lot, and their resting places are marked by well-kept stones.

LIEUT. TOBIAS LORD,

Son of Capt. Tobias and Jane (Smith) Lord, was born in a block-house February 22, 1748, under conditions which supplied only the simplest needs of life, and before middle age was passed had achieved financial prosperity and marked success as a citizen, his own house being one of the finest in the country.

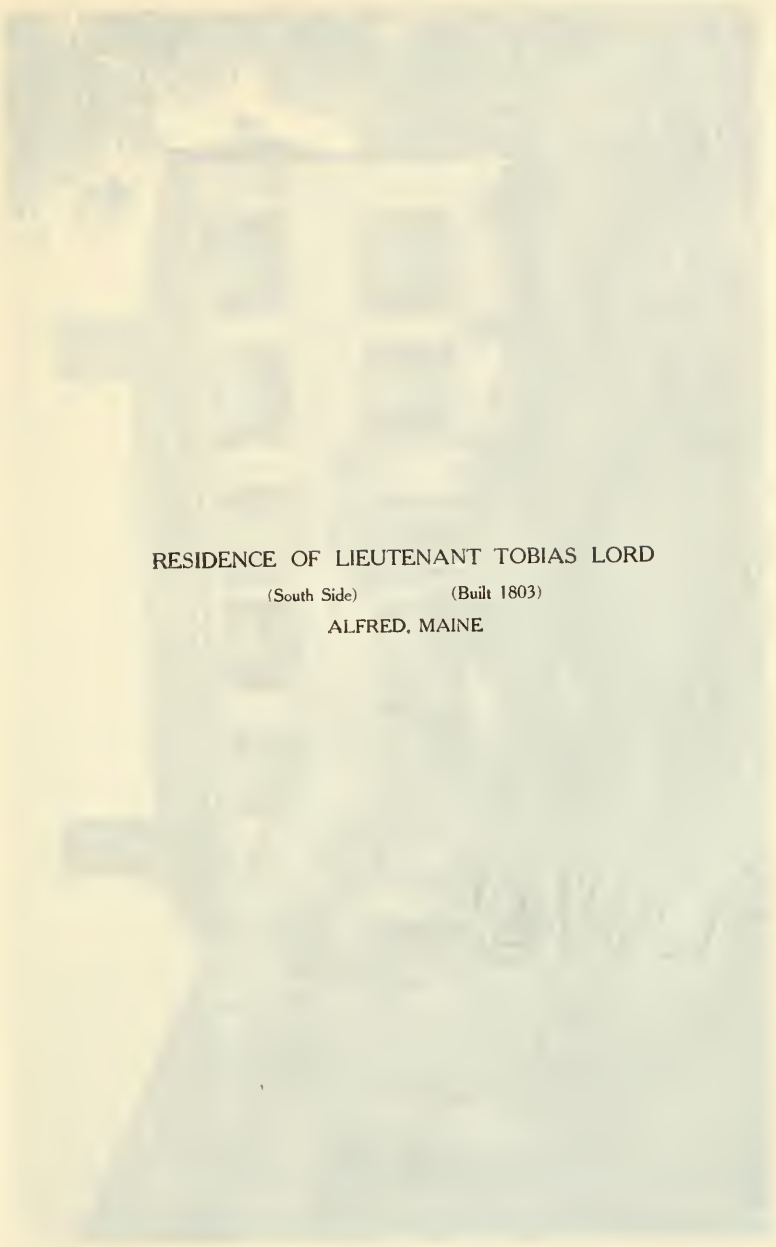

His early boyhood was passed on his father's farm, where he assisted in tilling the land, and in his father's business of brick manufacturing. When scarcely fifteen years of age he was sent to Moulton's Mills, at the lower part of Sanford, to make his home with a relative and to learn the rudiments of the milling business. Here young Tobias was taught to labor from sunrise to sunset and later. He was given the care of a team of six oxen, with which he transported lumber from the mills. He early learned self-reliance, for at times it was necessary for him to mount the back of one of the oxen and with a stout stick fight off the attack of wolves. At one time, his father then being at Falmouth in command of a company of militia, the son was given the duty of driving a pair of oxen from Arundel to camp, as provision for the garrison. Venturing upon this errand in the early morning of one of the long days of June, he accomplished his mission successfully, looked about the town to see such sights as the place afforded, and then began his homeward march. Arriving before dark at the friend's home where he had been cautioned to spend the night, he resolved to continue his journey and did so, reaching home before the dawn. On December 3, 1772, he married Miss Mehitable Scammon of Biddeford.

Being now drafted into the army from Sanford, his name is mentioned on the muster and pay rolls of the list of officers in Capt. Morgan Lewis's 12th Sanford Company, Col. Ebenezer Sayer's 1st York County Regiment; he was commissioned June 25, 1776, and again as Second Lieutenant in the Battalion drafted from the York County Brigade, and in Capt. James Littlefield's Company of the Regiment formerly commanded by Col. Joseph Storer of Kennebunk, his re-enlistment occurring August 14, 1777. Lieut. Lord served in the Northern Army. He was present at the surrender of Gen. Burgoyne's Expeditionary Force, and was altogether in the Revolutionary service nearly three years. When discharged at Quernan's Heights, October 23, 1777, and receiving his dues for military service and for fifteen days' travel homewards, he with several companions began the toilsome march from the Hudson river to the Mousam. On this journey the little party sometimes accomplished a distance of thirty miles in a single day.

In 1779 he removed from Moulton's Mills, to which he had returned from the army, to Kennebunk, and established himself on the present Water Street, where he built a small dwelling nearly opposite the saw-mill of later years. He also purchased a share of the existing Iron Works there, this vicinity being then the centre of business. The purchase is couched in these words: "Know all men by these Presents, that I, Nathaniel Kimball, of Wells, in the County of York and State of the Massachusetts Bay, Gent., for the Consideration of twenty-six Pounds, thirteen Shillings and four pence, lawful money, paid me by Tobias Lord of Wells afores^{d}., Yeoman, the Receipt of which I do hereby acknowledge and also hereby grant unto the said Lord my Interest of two days in every fortnight in the Iron Works on Mousam River near the Head of the Tide, with the Privileges belonging to this or any Succeeding mill or mills, in the same Right or Interest, to him the said Lord his Heirs and Assigns forever. 3rd June 1780."

Young Mr. Lord now began the building of small vessels at the Landing on the Mousam just below the Iron Works, and some five years later erected the frame of a store on this river-road above his house, and another at the easterly junction of the county road and the way leading up into the country at the rear of the present stores. At this period he made purchases of lands and business interests of various kinds, as mills, water rights, etc.

RESIDENCE OF LIEUTENANT TOBIAS LORD

(South Side) (Built 1803)

ALFRED, MAINE

An unusually violent freshet in 1785 temporarily interrupted his ship-building work, floating a vessel that was nearly planked up and conveying it to another spot, but happily stranding it in such a position that it could be completed and launched.

In the winter of 1780/81, Mehitable Scammon, his first wife, died shortly after giving birth to a daughter who lived but a short time, and on November 7, 1781, Tobias Lord married Miss Hephzibah Conant, daughter of Nathaniel and Abigail (Dodge) Conant of Alfred (Coxhall), Me.

Being desirous of obtaining a better location for his growing shipbuilding business, in 1790 he removed with his family to the "Landing" on the Kennebunkport River, where he built the large three-storied house in which he lived until his removal to Alfred in 1803.

The house had a portico with pillars on the street side, and a spacious front hall with mahogany stair-rail. The main building had four large rooms on the ground floor, with fireplaces, high mantels, and the old style polished brass box locks in the doors. The great chimneys rested upon brick arches in the cellar, and inside window shutters were provided for the entire house, which was painted white without. In this home several of the younger children of the family were born. Adjoining the house were the barn and carriage-house beneath one roof, and on the opposite side of the street stood Mr. Lord's narrow red store with open fireplace, counting room, and second story loft extending the entire length of the building. This loft was used in later years as a place for picking oakum for the ships.

Mr. Lord now encountered business adversity in the loss of several vessels by shipwreck without marine insurance. He became embarrassed, and in the stress sought aid of Mr. William Gray, the eminent ship owner of Salem. To him the young Kennebunk merchant related his story, and so convinced was Mr. Gray of Mr. Lord's sincerity and integrity that he counselled him to continue his ship-building by accepting financial aid. This he did in the extremity, and afterwards prospered. Business losses did not wholly cease, however; the brig Dolphin, partially owned by Mr. Lord in 1793, and also, at other times, the brig Atlantic and schooner Fortune were captured by the French, and if not condemned suffered loss by detention. In 1800 he became the principal owner of the brig "Vengeance," built this year by Nathaniel Gilpatrick, who possessed the uppermost ship-yard on the river.

So great was Mr. Lord's hospitality that he permitted the teamsters who brought timber from a distance in the country to pass the night upon the kitchen floor of his great house at Kennebunk Landing.

In 1803 he was chosen one of a committee for the enlargement and alteration of the meeting-house, the bell of which was made by Paul Revere. Mr. Tobias Lord possessed one ground-floor pew, and another in the gallery.

The exactions of the thriving business of Mr. Lord at Kennebunk Landing had now become so onerous to his family that to alleviate their burdens he resolved in 1803 to abandon his activities there, remove to the comparatively new town of Alfred, not far distant, and there establish for himself a new home.

The house, painted white, with shade trees in front of it, is in the form of an L. It may be said to have two fronts, with an entrance door and windows in the centre of each; that upon the road-side communicating with a square hall or entry way of ample dimensions, but without a stairway. The apartment to the south shows the posts cased in the corners of the room. On the long, sloping yard-side is the hallway proper, with an easy, old-style flight of stairs finished with scrolls and curved rail. Adjoining, there is an arched hall exit. The sunny dining room and kitchen lie beyond this hall, while following the fashion of a house of the time, two or three bed-rooms are provided on the lower floor. The great kitchen oven, smoke-closet and iron wash-kettles set in brick, yet remain intact, and each chamber in the story above has a fireplace. A long wood-shed with its front ornamented with elliptical arches fronts the yard, and also a two-storied store building, not formerly attached to the shed. On the farther side of the road, below the house and not obstructing the view from it, yet remains the large farm-barn.

In this new home small game was abundant, and the youth of the family pursued the hunt with interest. The youngest son, Francis, was born in this dwelling, which is yet in admirable condition, and some twenty years since a window pane was to be seen with various initial letters of the Lord family engraved upon it with a diamond.

In January, 1808, Tobias Lord, ever active, convoyed a consignment of lumber to Kennebunk Landing, being entertained there while on this visit, at the house of his daughter, Mehitable Watts, where, on the sixteenth of that month, he was stricken with an unlooked-for and fatal illness. At this day, even after an interval of one hundred years, he is spoken of by one who frequently heard his name mentioned when a boy, as one of the Noblemen of York County.

Thus the child born in a log-house, after a career of honorable activity, was the possessor of estates widespread, comprising the two home-lots at Kennebunk and Alfred of 190 acres of land with buildings thereon, quite 1,000 acres in out-lying wood-lots and farms with buildings in nearby towns, a saw-mill, $\frac{19}{60}$ of a school house, a pew in the Alfred meeting-house and a privilege for another in its gallery, interests in a profitable pier and wharf on Kennebunk river, personal property, cattle of various descriptions including horses, oxen, sheep, etc., to the number of nearly one hundred upon his various properties, ship timber, ownership in the brig "Alliance" with her apparel, the principal interest in the brig "Merchant," her outfit and inward cargo of 14,906 gallons of molasses, etc., etc. But the legacy most prized by his descendants must have been that lettered by his contemporaries, and yet to be seen on the mossy, marble headstone, hard by the old, now First Parish Church, with which he was identified, and reading in this fashion :

Sacred
To the Memory of

Mr. TOBIAS LORD

obt. Jan. 16, 1808, Aet 59.

A distinguished merchant who rose to eminence by virtuous industry, the fruit of which he liberally distributed to assist the enterprising yeomanry.
Kennebunk, the scene of his activity, will long mourn the loss of a patron, and society regret the departure of one of God's noblest works — an honest man.

In memory of

HEPHZIBAH LORD
relict of Tobias Lord
who died Oct. 23, 1818,
Aged 59 years.

No noise or ostentation marked her path through life.
She lived in peace,
and peacefully she died.
Her memory, dear to all her friends, remains embalmed in the hearts of her children.

ANCESTORS OF MEHITABLE SCAMMON

First Wife of Lieut. Tobias Lord

Humphrey Scammon, the Immigrant,

Born about 1640, is said to have been a native of Portsmouth, Eng.; his wife's name was Elizabeth. He came to Saco as early as 1679, where he received a grant of land and purchased 200 acres of the widow of Henry Waddock, and June 12, 1680, he was "accepted into the town." He had a garrison house in which he lived on the east side of the Saco River, where he kept the ferry and entertained strangers.

During the Indian troubles he lived sometimes in Saco, sometimes in Kittery, and was in the latter town in 1693. Four years later he was captured together with his family and carried to Canada, where he remained until the close of King Philip's War — about the first of 1699, — when they returned to Saco. At the time of making his will he was of Kittery. He died in the town formerly Biddeford, now Saco, January 1, 1727.

An aged lady, descended from the family, has described their capture by the Indians as follows: —

When Samuel Scammon was about ten years old, as I have often heard him relate, he was sent one day by his mother with a mug of beer to his father and brother, who were at work on a piece of marsh near the lower ferry. He had not proceeded far when he saw a number of Indians at a distance, and immediately ran back to inform his mother. He regained the house, and wished to fasten the doors and windows; but his mother prevented him, telling him that the Indians would certainly kill them if he did. The savages soon entered the house, and asked Mrs. Scammon where her "Samp" was, meaning her husband. At first she refused to tell them, and they threatened to carry her off alone, but promised if she would disclose where he was to take them together, without harm. She then told them.

After destroying much of the furniture, breaking many articles on the door stone and emptying all the feather beds to secure the sacks, they went away with their prisoners toward the marsh where they captured Mr. Scammon and the other son. They were all restored after being in captivity about a year.

On returning they found the house just as it had been left, even the beer mug which little Samuel had placed on the dresser, and which is still preserved in the family at Saco. This is a handsome piece of brown ware, with the figure and name of King William stamped on it.

Samuel Scammon, Sr., son of Humphrey and Elizabeth Scammon,

Was born about 1690, and died May, 1752, in his sixty-third year. He married twice, first at Kittery in 1712, Margery, the daughter of Roger Dearing, Sr., of Kittery; she was born in 1689, and died October 10, 1740. He married second (intention of marriage September 5, 1741), Elizabeth Stimson of Biddeford.

He lived on the easterly side of Saco River, half a mile above the lower ferry, but after the death of his first wife resided with his son, Samuel, Jr. Mr. Scammon was admitted a member of the church in Biddeford, by Rev. Samuel Willard, and was one of the eighteen charter members.

In his will he signs his name Samuel Scamon, but his son, Samuel, Jr., changes it to Scammon in his own will.

Samuel Scammon, Jr., son of Samuel and Margery (Dearing) Scammon,

Was born in 1713, and died March 8, 1758.

Lieutenant Scammon married about 1736, Mehitable, daughter of Samuel and Mary (Freeman) Hinckley of Truro, Mass. She was born December 25, 1718, and died June 6, 1811. Previous to her marriage she was living at New Meadows, now Brunswick, Me.

In 1736 Samuel Scammon, Jr., built a garrison house about in the centre of the present city of Saco. This house, though moved from its original site and much altered, is still used as a dwelling.

He was one of the twenty-four additional male members of the Congregational Church in Biddeford, founded by a Council, April 30, 1730, which was the first church organization in the Saco Valley.

Mehitable Scammon, daughter of Lieut. Samuel and Mehitable (Hinckley) Scammon,

Was baptized June 10, 1753, and was married to Lieutenant Tobias Lord, of Arundel, as his first wife, December 3, 1772; they had four children, one of whom died in infancy.

William Brewster, the Immigrant,

Was born at Scrooby, Nottinghamshire, Eng., in 1566 or 1567. His father was William Brewster, Receiver of Scrooby, and Bailiff of the Manor House belonging to the Archbishop of York, so the old ecclesiastical Manor was Brewster's early home. His youth was passed at Scrooby, until he matriculated at Peterhouse College, Cambridge University. On leaving Cambridge he became the assistant of William Davison, Secretary of State to Queen Elizabeth. On the retirement of Davison in 1587, Brewster returned to Scrooby, interested himself in religious matters, and at his father's death succeeded to the office of "Post" of Scrooby. He made his home a meeting-place for those who sought to reform what he and they believed the unscriptural practices of the Church established by law, and devoted his means and time to the formation of the Separatist or Congregational Church.

Persecuted for heresy, he attempted to remove to Holland in 1607, but was arrested and imprisoned at Boston, Eng. When released he went with other members of the Scrooby Church to Amsterdam, and later to Leyden, where he lived for twelve years, working as a teacher and master-printer, but constantly devoted to the interests of the colony of Separatists.

At this time he published and edited theological treatises in Latin and English, furnishing to England and Scotland the Protestant literature which the Reformation needed. He emigrated to America as the spiritual leader and "Ruling Elder" with that portion of the colony which sailed in the "Mayflower," and landed at Provincetown, November 21, 1620, and at Plymouth December 26, 1620; establishing there the first embodiment in America of freedom in the Church and equality in the State.

With Brewster came his wife Mary and their sons Love and Wrestling. His eldest son, Jonathan, came the next year in the ship "Fortune," and later, the two daughters Patience and Fear. At Plymouth Brewster labored efficiently for the colony. He presided at meetings, preached or "taught" twice on Sundays, and filled as nearly as possible the office of the absent minister, Robinson. Noted for his gentleness and wisdom, he was more tolerant than other leaders of the early Colonies.

While living in his log house in Plymouth he yearly received supplies of newly published books in Latin and English. The inventory of his estate shows his library to be the largest in the Colony — 377 volumes — and for some years the only one of any size or value.

For thirty years his learning and services were devoted to the Colony, and he died April 10, 1644, at Plymouth. History recognizes Elder Brewster as the spiritual leader of the Pilgrims, the transplanter of the first New England Meeting-house, and the suggester of the first New England Town-meeting: and Governor Bradford writing from Plymouth after the death of Brewster says — "He was foremost in our adventure in England, Holland and here."

Gov. Thomas Prence, the Immigrant,

Was born in England about 1600, came to America in 1621 and settled in Plymouth, later removing to Eastham. He married 1st, Patience Brewster, August 5, 1624 (this was the ninth marriage in Plymouth Colony). She died in 1634, and the records show three subsequent marriages of Prence.

He was treasurer of the colony from 1637 to 1640; Governor's Assistant from 1632 to 1656, except for two short intervals; member of the Council of War in 1637; Commissioner for the United Colonies in 1645, and was eighteen times chosen Governor of Plymouth Colony. "A man of commanding presence and tried integrity." He died at Plymouth, March 29, 1673.

Edmund Freeman, the Immigrant,

Came from England in 1635 in the ship "Abigail" and settled at Lynn — then Saugus, later removing to Sandwich in 1637. He was one of the ten original grantees of land, afterwards incorporated as the town of Sandwich. He became one of the largest landowners of the town, and was always prominent and influential in its affairs.

His wife, Elizabeth, died February 14, 1675. They had two sons and three daughters. He died at Sandwich in 1682. They were buried on his own land, and this site is the oldest burying place in Sandwich. The rustic monuments (known locally as "the saddle and pillion"), placed above their graves by Edmund Freeman's own order, are still preserved.

Major John Freeman, son of Edmund Freeman the Immigrant,

Was born in England about 1621, and died at Eastham, Mass., October 28, 1719. He has a fine military record. In 1654 he was Ensign at Eastham. In 1656 and again from 1661 to 1666 he was deputy to the General Court under the title of Lieutenant. He was a member of the Council of War from 1667 to 1676, and as Captain was sent against the Indians at Taunton, Mass., in 1675. The companies from Barnstable, Eastham, Sandwich and Yarmouth having been organized as the 3d Regiment, "John Freeman of Eastham was commissioned Major Commandant," and led the expedition against the Indians at Saconet in 1677. He also served as Governor's Assistant under Prence, Winslow and Hinckley.

He married Mercy Prence at Eastham on February 13, 1649. She died at Eastham, September 28, 1711. They had ten children.

Lieut. Edmund Freeman, son of Maj. John Freeman and Mercy (Prence) Freeman,

Was born at Eastham, Mass., in June, 1657, as recorded in the Plymouth Colony Births. He married Sarah Mayo, by whom he had three sons and seven daughters. He was Lieutenant of Militia. He died at Eastham in February of 1717 or '18; his widow surviving him until 1745.

Mrs. Freeman's daughter, Mary, married Samuel Hinckley about 1703.

Thomas Hinckley, the sixth and last Governor of Plymouth Colony,

Was born in England about 1618, came to this country with his father, Samuel Hinckley, and settled at Scituate, later removing to Barnstable. He was admitted as freeman of Plymouth Colony as early as 1645. In 1646 he was made Deputy from the town of Barnstable to the Colonial Court, and, was repeatedly chosen to this office until 1658, when he was made Governor's Assistant. Promoted to Deputy Governor in 1680, he was next year chosen Governor, and except during the interruption to the government, caused by the appointment of Sir Edmund Andros, Governor Hinckley held that office until 1692, when Massachusetts Colony and Plymouth Colony were united.

He married Mary Richards, daughter of Thomas Richards of Weymouth, December 7, 1641. They had eight children. Mary, his wife, died June 24, 1659, and he married Mary Glover, March 16, 1659/60. He died at Barnstable, April 25, 1705.

Samuel Hinckley, son of Samuel Hinckley and grandson of Gov. Thomas Hinckley,

Was born at Barnstable, Mass., September 24, 1684, and died in January, 1760, at Brunswick, Me. He married Mary Freeman, daughter of Lieut. Edmund Freeman of Eastham, about 1706. He removed to Harwich, Mass., then Truro, Mass., and then to Biddeford, Me., where in 1735 he bought 35 acres of land. He was one of the founders of Biddeford First Church. Later he moved to Brunswick and settled at New Meadows. He was selectman at Brunswick for six years, and was known there as well as at Biddeford as Deacon Hinckley.

They had eleven children.

Mehitable Hinckley, daughter of Samuel Hinckley, married Lieut. Samuel Scammon, father of Mehitable Scammon, first wife of Lieut. Tobias Lord.

ANCESTORS OF HEPHZIBAH CONANT

Second Wife of Lieut. Tobias Lord

Gov. Roger Conant, the Immigrant,

Probably came on the "Ann," arriving at Plymouth, Mass., in July, 1623. He was son of Richard, and grandson of John Conant, and was baptized in All Saints' Church, East Budleigh, Devonshire, Eng., April 9, 1592. He married Sarah Horton in London, at St. Ann's Black-friars, November 11, 1618, and died at Beverly, Mass., November 19, 1679. He was Governor of the Massachusetts Colony at Cape Ann, 1624–1626, and at Salem, 1627–1628, and was a Deputy to the General Court in 1634. He was the youngest of the eight children of Richard and Agnes (Clarke) Conant. Richard was one of the leading men in East Budleigh and a Church Warden; his wife, Agnes Clarke, was the daughter of the leading merchant of Colyton, a neighboring parish. In 1619 he was probably free of the Salters' Company, and a citizen of London.

During the winter of 1624–25 the Dorchester Company, hearing of the settlement at Nantasket, and of Roger Conant "a pious, sober, and prudent Gentleman," chose him to manage their affairs at Cape Ann. It was late in the fall of 1625 when he took charge of the Cape Ann settlement, the location of which was on the west side of Gloucester Harbor, and near Stage Head. The Company lost money, and most of the settlers returned to England, but Conant and a few others were persuaded to remain. In the fall of 1626 the settlement was removed to Naumkeag, or Salem as it was afterwards called, the number of settlers being reduced to about forty.

Soon after coming to Salem many of the colonists, including Woodbury and Balch, decided to go farther south, and settle in Virginia, but through Conant's influence they decided to remain. In his petition to the General Court in 1671, to have the name of Beverly changed to Budleigh, he says: — "When in the infancy thereof it [the colony] was in great hassard of being deserted, I was a means through grace assisting me, to stop the flight of those few that there then were heere with me, and that by my utter deniall to goe away with them who would have gone either for England or mostly for Virginia, but hereupon stayed to the hassard of our lives."

In the fall of 1627 John Woodbury was sent to England as agent of the colonists, to procure a patent before others should acquire a legal title to lands they had rendered valuable by their labor. The Council for New England granted to several gentlemen a patent "of some lands in the Massachusetts Bay" March 19, 1627/28, but after Woodbury had left England on his return with the good news, a new party acquired control of the patent, and John Endicott was sent over in 1628, with about fifty colonists, and superseded Conant as Governor. The old planters were greatly dissatisfied at this change, but Conant used his influence to preserve harmony.

He became a freeman May 18, 1631, and was frequently called to offices of honor and trust by his fellow townsmen, and the General Court.

Both Roger Conant and his wife were among the original members of the First Church at Salem, and in 1637 both signed the renewed covenant. In 1667 the residents of Beverly withdrew from the Salem church and organized as a separate church with Rev. John Hale, son of Robert Hale, as pastor. The name of Roger Conant is first on the list of members.

June 7, 1671, the General Court granted him 200 acres of land in consideration of his being "a very ancient planter." This was in addition to several large grants made earlier, so at this time he was a large land owner in Beverly.

He died November 19, 1679, at Beverly.

Lot Conant, son of Roger Conant,

Was born about 1624, at Nantasket or Cape Ann, and was at Marblehead in 1657, where he was selectman in 1662. He moved to Beverly in 1666. In 1649 he married Elizabeth Walton, daughter of Rev. William Walton who took his degree at Emmanuel College, Cambridge, in 1621, and was settled over the parish of Seaton, Devonshire. Later she became the third wife of Andrew Mansfield of Lynn.

Lot Conant died in Beverly, September 29, 1674.

John Conant, son of Lot Conant,

Was born at Beverly, December 15, 1652, and was a farmer and weaver. He married May 7, 1678, Bethiah Mansfield, daughter of Andrew Mansfield of Lynn, and was admitted to the First Church of Beverly August 23, 1691. He served in Capt. Appleton's Company during King Philip's War, and died at Beverly, September 30, 1724.

Daniel Conant, son of John Conant,

Was born at Beverly, November 19, 1694, and was a farmer and mason, living on Dodge Street. He married January 23, 1716, Lucy Dodge, daughter of Richard, 3d, and Martha (Low) Dodge, at Hamilton, Mass.

He was a Representative from Beverly to the General Court for two years, and died at Beverly in April, 1751.

Nathaniel Conant, son of Daniel Conant,

Was born July 23, 1726, at Beverly. He married Abigail Dodge, daughter of Joshua and Hannah (Raymond) Dodge, December 16, 1756. She was born at Beverly, July 3, 1732, and died at Alfred, Me., September 30, 1813. About 1766 he moved to Alfred, where he was one of the earliest settlers. He died there January 6, 1808.

Hephzibah Conant, daughter of Nathaniel Conant,

Was born at Beverly, February 3, 1760/61, and married Tobias Lord, son of Capt. Tobias and Jane (Smith) Lord, as his second wife, November 7, 1781 ; Rev. Daniel Little of Kennebunk performed the ceremony. The Intention of Marriage reads "Tobias Lord of Wells, and Hephzibah Conant of Coxhall," and was dated October 27, 1781. She died October 23, 1818.

THOMAS BOREMAN (Boardman), the Immigrant (Thomas,[4] William,[3] Thomas,[2] William[1]).

William[1] Boreman of Banbury, Oxfordshire, Eng., in 1525, was probably the father of Thomas[2] Boreman of Claydon, Eng.

Thomas[2] Boreman, the elder, of Claydon, near Banbury, was the great-grandfather of Thomas and Samuel, the emigrants to New England. He appears first in 1546, in a Lay Subsidy list for Banbury Hundred. He died in 1579.

William[3] Boreman of Claydon, was the grandfather of Thomas Boreman. He married Annis ——, who died in May, 1608. He died in January, 1612/13.

Thomas[4] Boreman, the father of Thomas Boreman, was born about 1570; married February 2, 1595/96, Elizabeth, daughter of Felix and Margaret Carter of Claydon. He died in March, 1627/28. She died in May, 1631.

Thomas, the emigrant to Ipswich, Mass., was born in Claydon, Eng., where he was baptized October 16, 1601. He probably came to New England in 1634, and was made a freeman by the General Court in March, 1634/35. His house, built in 1635, was at the east end of High Street, now called East Street. He owned Boardman's Island.

He is uniformly spoken of as Mr. Boreman, and his wife as Mistress, terms of distinction applied to very few in those days. At a "General Court houlden at Boston" September 8, 1636, Mr. Boreman was one of the Deputies. His wife's name was Margaret Offin, and they were married in London, Eng., August 17, 1630. His daughter Martha married Deacon Thomas Low, July 4, 1660. He died in May, 1673, at the age of 72 years, 7 months. His wife died November 25, 1679.

Thomas Low, the Immigrant,

Was born in England, and was at Ipswich, Mass., in 1641. He was son of Capt. Low, master of ship "Ambrose," and vice-admiral of the fleet that brought Gov. Winthrop over in 1630.

His wife Susannah Low died at Watertown, August 19, 1664; he died at Chebacco, Ipswich, September 8, 1677.

Deacon Thomas Low, son of Thomas Low,

Was born in England in 1632, and married Martha Boreman, daughter of Thomas and Margaret (Offin) Boreman of Ipswich, July 4, 1660. He served in King Philip's War, and had a grant of land in Narragansett Township, now Buxton, Me., for service. He was at Ipswich, Mass., in 1641, and died there April 12, 1712. His daughter Martha Low married Richard Dodge, 3d, November 16, 1694.

William Eaton, the Immigrant,

Was born about 1604–06 at Staples, County of Kent, Eng., where he was a husbandman. He married Martha Jenkins about 1630. He took passage with wife and three children and servant from Sandwich for the American Plantations in June, 1637; he was a landholder at Watertown, Mass., in 1642, and made a freeman in 1653. Both he and his wife were members of the church in Reading, Mass., in 1648. He died at Reading, May 13, 1673. His daughter Mary married Richard Dodge, 2d, February 23, 1667.

Richard Dodge, the Immigrant, son of John and Margery Dodge,

Was born in Somersetshire, Eng., 1602. He arrived in Salem, October 29, 1638, and died at Beverly, June 15, 1671, leaving an estate valued at £1,764. He probably had a house where No. 342 Dodge Street, Beverly, was in 1894. He and his wife Edith were members of Wenham church before 1648.

He had a high appreciation of the value of education, for in 1653 he headed a list of twenty-one subscribers to Harvard College, giving four times as much as any other.

Richard Dodge, 2d, son of Richard and Edith Dodge,

Was born at Beverly in 1643 ; he married Mary Eaton, daughter of William and Martha (Jenkins) Eaton, February 23, 1667, and died at Wenham, Mass., April 13, 1705. He was a farmer and lived in the south part of Wenham.

Richard Dodge, 3d, son of Richard and Mary (Eaton) Dodge,

Was born at Wenham, Mass., July 12, 1670, and died at Ipswich June 7, 1739. He was a prosperous farmer of Ipswich where he settled about the time of his marriage to Martha, daughter of Deacon Thomas Low of Chebacco, in Ipswich, November 16, 1694. His daughter Lucy married January 23, 1716/17, Daniel Conant, grandfather of Hephzibah Conant, second wife of Lieut. Tobias Lord.

Edward Bishop, the Immigrant,

Lived in Beverly 1639, and was first a husbandman, and afterwards a sawyer. His second wife, Bridget Oliver, was executed as a witch. His daughter, Hannah Bishop, by his first wife, married Capt. William Raymond.

Capt. William Raymond, the Immigrant,

Was born about 1637, and came to New England about 1652. He was in the Narragansett Fight in 1675, and was appointed by the General Court Lieut. Commander of the Beverly and Wenham Troop in 1683. He was a Deputy to the General Court in 1685–86, and commanded a Company in the Expedition to Canada under Sir William Phipps in 1690. He married Hannah, daughter of Edward Bishop. William Raymond was a great-great-grandfather of Hephzibah Conant.

John Woodbury, the Immigrant,

Was born in Somersetshire, Eng., about 1579, and embarked from Weymouth, Eng., and arrived at Stage Fort, now Gloucester, as one of the leaders of the Dorchester Company, in February or March, 1623/24. He was made a freeman May 18, 1631, and was Deputy to the General Court in 1635–39. In 1637 he was chosen one of the selectmen of Salem, Mass., and served until 1641. He and his wife Agnes were among the original members of the First Church in Salem at its formation in 1629.

His first wife was Joanna Humphrey, whom he married at Burlescombe, Eng., June 21, 1596. He married 2d, Agnes or Anis, widow of John Derby, before August, 1629.

He was chosen the first and only Lord High Constable in America, September 28, 1630. In 1638 and 1639 he was one of the " Raters " in Salem to levy taxes. In 1639 and 1640 he was treasurer of the town of Salem. For years he was on the jury and grand jury, — generally foreman. Up to the time of his death in the latter part of 1641, he stood next to Gov. Endicott in importance. His will was proved February 8, 1642/43.

(See page 185).

Peter Woodbury, son of John and Agnes (Derby) Woodbury,

Was baptized at Salem July 19, 1640, and married Sarah, born 1644, daughter of Richard Dodge the immigrant, in July, 1667. He was elected by the General Court to be a freeman of the Bay Corporation April 27, 1668, and was selectman 1675–84, and a Deputy to the General Court in 1689–92 ; he bore the title of Lieutenant in 1689, in Provincial Records. September 23, 1667, he and his wife Sarah were admitted to full communion with the church in Beverly, and October 20, 1686, he was chosen a deacon. He died at Salem July 4, 1704, and his wife died September 11, 1726.

Robert Mansfield, the Immigrant,

Came from Exeter, Devonshire, Eng., and died December 16, 1666.

Rev. William Walton, the Immigrant,

Was born at Seaton, Devonshire, Eng., about 1598, and was at Hingham, Mass., in 1635. He was made a freeman March 3, 1636, and died at Marblehead, Mass., in 1638. He entered Emmanuel College, Cambridge, Eng., February, 1617/18. His daughter Elizabeth, born 1629, married 1st, Lot Conant, and 2d, Andrew Mansfield.

Andrew Mansfield, the Immigrant, son of Robert and Elizabeth Mansfield,

Was born in 1598 at Exeter, Eng. He came to Boston in 1636 and to Lynn in 1640. In 1666 he was town clerk and one of the Selectmen in 1678, and died at Lynn in 1692. His son Andrew was Representative to the General Court in 1680, and married Elizabeth (Walton) Conant, widow of Lot Conant, January 10, 1681/82, and died at Lynnfield, August 31, 1730. Andrew Mansfield was a great-great-grandfather of Hephzibah Conant.

Robert Hale, the Immigrant,

Belonged to the family of Hale in Kent, Eng., where they were residing as early as the reign of Edward III.

He probably came in the fleet with Winthrop, and was one of the earliest members of the First Church in Boston, his name being the eighteenth on the roll. He was one of the founders of the Charlestown church, and one of its first deacons. He was admitted to that church October 14, 1632, and was made a freeman May 14, 1634.

He was a blacksmith and carpenter by trade, and regularly employed by the General Court as a Surveyor of new plantations. He was wealthy and active in all public concerns of the town, serving as selectman for eleven years. He was Ensign of the Charlestown Train-band, and joined the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company in 1644. He died July 16, 1659. His wife, Jane, died July, 1679. His daughter, Joanna, born 1638, married 1st, John Larkin, and 2d, Capt. William Dodge.

Edward Larkin, the Immigrant,

He became an inhabitant May 5, 1638, and was admitted to the church August 23, 1639, and made a freeman May 13, 1640. He joined the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company in 1644, and died in February, 1652. His son, John, married Joanna Hale. She afterwards married, as her second husband, Capt. William Dodge, whose son, Joshua Dodge, married her daughter, Joanna (his stepsister).

William Dodge, the Immigrant, son of John and Margery Dodge,

Was born in Somersetshire, Eng., about 1604, and came to this country in the "Lion's Whelp," a ship of 120 tons, which left Gravesend April 25, 1629, and Yarmouth, Isle of Wight, May 11, and arrived at Salem June 29, 1629. He settled in that part of Salem now called Beverly.

He was commended to Gov. Endicott as a "skillful and painful husbandman," with the request that he might have charge of a team of horses. He was made a freeman April 17, 1637, and was a Deputy to the General Court in 1682. He died between 1685 and 1692.

Capt. William Dodge, son of William Dodge,

Was born at Beverly September 19, 1640, and lived there as a malster. He married 1st, Mary Conant, daughter of Roger Conant and widow of John Balch, and married 2d, May 26, 1685, widow Joanna Larkin, daughter of Deacon Robert Hale of Charlestown, who died August 18, 1694. He was in the Narragansett Fight in 1675 and acquired distinction for courage and skill. He was made a freeman in 1683. He was a Representative from Beverly to the General Court in 1690, and died at Beverly March 24, 1720/21.

Joshua Dodge, son of Capt. William and Mary (Conant) Dodge,

Was baptized August 29, 1669, at Beverly, and died there April 15, 1694. He married Joanna Larkin, daughter of his stepmother, Mrs. Joanna (Hale) Larkin, the second wife of Capt. William Dodge.

In April, 1693, Joshua Dodge and others were authorized to build a seat in the meeting house (First Church), by the west end of the pulpit.

Deacon Joshua Dodge, Jr., son of Joshua and Joanna (Larkin) Dodge,

Was born September 20, 1694, after the death of his father. He lived at North Beverly, where he died December 20, 1771. He married Hannah Raymond June 14, 1716. He was brought up in the family of his stepfather, John Thorndike, and became a most useful and respected citizen. He was the grandfather of Hephzibah Conant.

Ancestors of Olive and Hannah Jefferds.

Simon Jefferds (Jeofreys), the Immigrant,

Emigrated from England about the year 1700, and came to Salem, Mass., where he married Elizabeth Cole, November 20, 1701. His children were Samuel and Mary. He also had a son and daughter, both deaf and dumb, who died young. After the death of his wife he moved to Virginia, married again and died there.

Rev. Samuel Jefferds, son of Simon and Elizabeth (Cole) Jefferds (Jeffords),

Was born in Salem, April 6, 1704, and educated at Harvard College by his grandmother Cole, with whom he and his sister lived. He graduated in 1722, kept a school in Beverly for about one year, and studied for the ministry there. He went to Wells, Me., to preach, in December, 1725, at the age of twenty-one.

It is said of him that he was of a kind and charitable spirit; sensible of his own fallibility, he was disposed to look upon the aberrations of his fellow men with perhaps more of pity and commiseration than true charity would require. He would not break the bruised reed. He evidently labored to promote a kind and helpful disposition among his people, so that he drew to himself their sympathy and good will. As the money currency was continually depreciating, the town voted several successive years to add thirty pounds to his salary, and in 1736 it was increased eighty pounds. He was in the ministry twenty-six years.

He married Sarah Wheelwright, daughter of Col. John Wheelwright of Wells, October 27, 1727, by whom he had ten children. He died February 2, 1752, and his wife Sarah died February 14, 1762, aged 55 years.

Samuel Jefferds, son of Rev. Samuel and Sarah (Wheelwright) Jefferds,

Was born October 9, 1729, and married Hannah Hill, daughter of Nathaniel and Priscilla (Littlefield) Hill, July 7, 1752.

Capt. Samuel Jefferds lived on what was termed "Sandy Hill" about 1750, and later moved to the vicinity of Pike's mill on Little River, where he kept a tavern which was much used about the time of the Revolutionary War. He also operated a fulling mill on Little River near the tavern.

He died July 4, 1790, aged 61 years. His wife, Hannah Hill, was born November 20, 1732, and died October 7, 1769, aged 37 years.

William Jefferds, son of Samuel and Hannah (Hill) Jefferds,

Was born February 19, 1753, and married Olive Gilpatrick, daughter of James Gilpatrick, June 8, 1775, by whom he had ten children.

He moved from Wells to Kennebunk in 1777, and having been educated as a fuller of cloth by his father, built a mill by the iron works at the western end of the lower dam on the Mousam River where he employed himself for several years.

THE JEFFERDS INN

WELLS, MAINE

TILD

The Jefferds Tavern, now known as the Mousam House, was built by Dominicus Lord, who commenced clearing the land April 19, 1775, but owing to lack of money and the uncertainty of the times, did not complete it until 1784, when after occupying it for a few years he sold it to William Jefferds by whom it was opened as a public house in 1790–92, and carried on by him and his son for many years.

Mr. Jefferds died April 28, 1820, aged 67 years, and his wife, Olive, died April 29, 1831, aged 75 years.

Hannah Jefferds, daughter of William and Olive (Gilpatrick) Jefferds,

Was born in October, 1775, at Wells, and married Samuel Lord, the oldest son of Lieut. Tobias Lord and Mehitable Scammon, February 26, 1799, at Wells.

She died February 14, 1816, at Kennebunk.

Olive Jefferds, daughter of William and Olive (Gilpatrick) Jefferds,

Was born December 21, 1793, at Kennebunk, in the Jefferds Tavern which was then owned by her father, and married April 22, 1816, George Lord, son of Lieut. Tobias Lord and Hephzibah Conant.

After her husband's death in 1861 she moved with her son Edward Watts Lord to Newton, Mass., where she made her home with her eldest son George Clement Lord, until her death, July 4, 1879.

Rev. John Wheelwright, the Immigrant,

Was probably born in the early part of 1592, at Salsby in Lincolnshire, Eng. His father, Robert Wheelwright, son of John Wheelwright, died there in 1612. Mr. Wheelwright graduated in 1614 at Sidney-Sussex College, Cambridge. Cotton Mather writes that "when Wheelwright was a young spark at the University he was noted for a more than ordinary stroke at wrestling, and afterwards while waiting on Cromwell, with whom he had been contemporary at the College, Cromwell declared to the gentlemen then about him, that he could remember the time when he had been more afraid of meeting Wheelwright at football than of meeting any army since in the field, for he was infallibly sure of being tripped up by him."

He married November 8, 1621, Marie Storre, and was made Vicar of Bilsby, April 9, 1623, which position he later lost on account of his religious views. His first wife having died he married Mary Hutchinson, sister of Ann Hutchinson, and daughter of Edward Hutchinson of Alvord, and with his family emigrated to America, landing in Boston May 26, 1636. He and his wife were admitted to the church, June 12, 1636. He was well received, and made pastor of a new church to be gathered at Mt. Wollaston, now Quincy.

In 1637 Wheelwright was found guilty by the General Court of "sedition and contempt of the civil authorities," and in November he left Massachusetts by sailing vessel to the mouth of the Piscataqua, and then found his way through the heavy snows of that bitter winter to the falls of the Squamscot, where in the spring of 1638, joined by his family, with others, he made a bargain with the Indians, April 3, 1638, for an extensive tract of land and founded Exeter. The famous Exeter Combination for the government of the settlement was drawn up by him under date of the fourth day of July, 1639, and subscribed to by him and thirty-four others. After a residence of five years here, the town was declared to be within the jurisdiction of Massachusetts, and Wheelwright removed with part of his church to Wells, in the district of Maine, and in 1643 we find him near Ogunquit, having probably been induced to seek a home there by Edmund Littlefield, who had preceded him from Exeter.

He left Wells for Hampton about 1645–46, and about 1657 went to England, where he was cordially received by Cromwell.

In 1660 he returned to this country, and was settled as pastor in Salisbury, N. H., where he died November 15, 1679, aged 87 years.

Samuel Wheelwright, son of Rev. John and Mary (Hutchinson) Wheelwright,

Was born in England about 1635 and came to New England with his parents in 1636, and to Wells, Me., in 1643. The family moved to Hampton in 1645, and afterwards to Salisbury. He returned to Wells about 1657, his father deeding to him one-half of his farm.

In 1665 he was made clerk of the writs and town clerk, which latter office he held for twenty-nine years. In the same year he was appointed Lieutenant in the militia. In 1670 he was chosen one of the selectmen of Wells, and in 1676 was made one of a committee to petition the King "for further settlement under the Bay Government," and was also County Treasurer. He was Representative at the General Court for York and Wells in 1677, and in 1681 was appointed by Charles II one of the Provincial Council of Maine.

In 1689 he was appointed Judge of Probate and Judge of the Court of Common Pleas by William and Mary. He was a member of the Massachusetts Council for the Province of Maine, 1695–98. He had one of the three Garrison Houses at the "Town's End" in Wells. He married Esther ——, and left four children, John, Joseph, Mary and Hannah.

Col. John Wheelwright, son of Samuel and Esther Wheelwright,

Was born in Wells about 1664; he married Mary Snell January 28, 1689, and had eleven children. He was a man of war, and a host within himself, and before the close of his life he came to be regarded as the bulwark of Maine against the attacks of her enemies. He served under Major John Converse, and was made respectively Lieutenant, Captain, Major, and in 1733 Colonel. He went to Pemaquid and Sheepscot, thence to Trebonit, and was afterwards stationed at Fort Mary, on the Saco River.

He was town clerk forty years, and also one of the selectmen. He was Deputy to the Massachusetts General Court in 1742; member of the Council 1708–33, and Commissioner to the Indians 1714–41.

He died August 13, 1745, aged 81 years.

His daughter Sarah married Rev. Samuel Jefferds October 27, 1727, and died February 14, 1762, aged fifty-five years.

Peter Hill, "Saylor," the Immigrant,

Came to this country with Winter's company which arrived at Richmond's Island, off Scarboro, in March, 1633. After leaving Winter's employ he settled on land leased of Mistress Mackworth on the Saco River.

He was a member of the Assembly of Ligonia in 1648, signed the submission to Massachusetts in 1653, was alloted land in Saco, July 12, 1653, and died in August, 1667.

Roger Hill, son of Peter Hill,

Was admitted a freeman in 1653, and married Sarah Cross, daughter of John and Frances Cross in 1658. John Cross was constable in Wells, and owned the only looking-glass and carpet in Wells at that time. He died about 1676.

Roger Hill died about 1696, and his wife Sarah about 1720.

Joseph Hill, son of Roger and Sarah (Cross) Hill,

Was born in Saco, April 5, 1670, and resided in Wells where he died July 12, 1743. He married Hannah Littlefield, daughter of Francis, Jr., and Meribah Littlefield, July 24, 1694. She was born at Wells in 1673, and died there October 10, 1738.

Joseph Hill served as lieutenant under his brother, Capt. John Hill, at Saco Fort, and held various offices in the town and parish, and was Collector of Customs. He was representative in 1727, and Collector of the Excise in 1734.

In December, 1727, he petitioned the Council showing that "he had been in sundry Engagements in the Service of his Country in the War against the Indian Enemy from the time of the Administration of Sir Edmund Andros Government In many of which Engagements several of the Indians have been slain, And therefore Praying that for his Services therein this Court would please to grant him Two or Three Hundred Acres of the unappropriated Lands of the Province lying within the County of York." By this petition he was granted leave to take 300 acres.

In his will dated March 23, 1742, he leaves a legacy to his "granddaughter, Hannah Hill," daughter of his son Nathaniel Hill, and 10 pounds to his church and to his pastor, Rev. Samuel Jefferds.

Nathaniel Hill, son of Joseph and Hannah (Littlefield) Hill,

Was baptized April 11, 1708, and married Priscilla Littlefield, November 15, 1729, at Wells, and died January 7, 1771.

Hannah Hill, daughter of Nathaniel and Priscilla (Littlefield) Hill,

Was born November 20, 1732, and married Samuel Jefferds, July 7, 1752, at Wells. She died October 7, 1769, aged 37 years.

Edmund Littlefield, the Immigrant,

Probably came to this country with his son Anthony and some friends of Rev. John Wheelwright, and arrived in Boston from Southampton, Eng., July 12, 1637. He was one of the first settlers in Wells, becoming a resident there about 1641.

Having decided to remain in this country he sent for his wife Annas Littlefield, who together with six of her children took passage for Boston in the "Bevis of Hampton," Capt. Tounes, in May, 1638.

Being suspected of sympathizing with Ann Hutchinson, a woman whose religious views divided Boston into two violently opposed factions, he was ordered to leave Boston early in the spring of 1638. Accordingly he with his family joined Rev. John Wheelwright at what is now Exeter, and was one of the subscribers to the Exeter Combination, a famous agreement for the government of that settlement. Exeter being found to be under the jurisdiction of Massachusetts, he was obliged to go further into the wilderness, and finally settled at Wells, to which place he was immediately followed by Rev. John Wheelwright and many of the Exeter people. He built a saw-mill and grist-mill at the falls of the Webhannet River in 1641. His house was located a short distance east of where the post-road crossed the river. He and his sons were mill men and farmers.

On account of his firm moral character he was appointed by the Governor of Massachusetts, agent for the sale of ardent spirits in Wells. He was also one of the committee for settling the boundary between Wells and Cape Porpoise, and a Commissioner to try small causes, elected by the people for the years 1654, 1655, 1658, 1660, and 1661. He was also agent of Gorges to give possession of sale to settlers.

He died December, 1661.

Francis Littlefield, Jr.,

Son of Edmund Littlefield, came from England in the "Bevis of Hampton" in May, 1638, with his mother Annas. He was born in England in 1631. He signed submission to the government of Massachusetts, July 5, 1653, and was appointed Ensign in York Regiment, King Philip's war, July, 1668. His daughter Hannah married Joseph Hill.

Hannah Littlefield, daughter of Francis, Jr., and Meribah Littlefield,

Was born at Wells in 1673, and was married July 24, 1694, to Joseph Hill, son of Roger and Sarah (Cross) Hill. She died October 10, 1738. Joseph Hill was born in April, 1670, at Saco, Me., and died July 12, 1743.

Thomas Gilpatrick, the Immigrant,

Came with his wife Mary to this country from Donathkeedy, Ireland. Probably he was one of a large number of Scotchmen living in the north of Ireland whose ancestors came from the southern part of Scotland at the time of the Scotch emigration to Ireland in the seventeenth century, and who had suffered so much for liberty, and cherished inexpressible longings to be free, that they could not be satisfied with their surroundings, hampered as they were in every direction, but looking into the future began to think of the new world.

These Scotchmen were encouraged by reports of civil and religious liberty in America, and several congregations of Scotch Presbyterians deciding in 1717 to remove thither, sent one of their number with a message to Governor Shute of Massachusetts early in 1718, asking for grants of land.

A favorable reply being received they sailed from Ireland in a fleet of some five vessels and arrived at Boston, August 4, 1718. Here they divided into three parties, one sailing along the coast as far as Portland, landing at several points.

Mr. Gilpatrick landed at Saco, Me., and was living at Wells in 1726, but removed to Biddeford in 1739, where he remained until his death, October 24, 1762, at the age of 88 years.

James Gilpatrick, son of Thomas and Mary Gilpatrick,

Came to Wells in 1728, married January 17, 1733, Sarah Boothby, daughter of Richard and Mabel (Littlefield) Boothby, and may have taken part in the siege of Louisburg in 1744.

In 1776 he enlisted for eight months' service in Capt. James Hubbard's Company and marched to Cambridge; he afterward re-enlisted for a year. This service was one of great hardship. They marched to New York, Albany, Lake Champlain and Montreal, thence back to St. John's where many had small-pox, thence to Ticonderoga and Trenton where they captured the Hessians.

He was living in Wells in April, 1818.

His daughter Olive Gilpatrick, born about 1756, married William Jefferds, son of Samuel Jefferds and Hannah Hill, June 8, 1775, and died April 29, 1831. She was the mother of Olive Jefferds who married George Lord.

Descendants of Lieut. Tobias and Mehitable (Scammon) Lord.

Samuel Lord, eldest son of Lieut. Tobias and Mehitable (Scammon) Lord,

Was born February 26, 1774, at Moulton's Mills (Whicher's Mills), Sanford, Me., and baptized March 6, 1775, at Biddeford.

He married February 26, 1799, Hannah Jefferds, daughter of William and Olive (Gilpatrick) Jefferds. His wife was a sister of Olive Jefferds who married George Lord, half-brother of Samuel Lord.

From 1795 to 1800 he was book-keeper for his father, and later became part owner in many vessels principally engaged in the West India trade. At one time he was considered very wealthy, but later met with many losses, several of his vessels being captured by French privateers.

After the death of his wife, which occurred February 14, 1816, he closed up his business in Kennebunk, and in 1826 went to New York, where he did some trading in coffee and cotton. From 1827 to 1834, he engaged in the dry goods business on Grand Street, afterwards going into business with his son, Samuel, Jr. In January, 1835, he joined his brother, Tobias Lord, 3d, in the wholesale grocery business. He returned to Kennebunk in 1848, and died November 8, 1851.

John Lord, son of Samuel and Hannah (Jefferds) Lord,

Was born November 27, 1803, at Kennebunk. He was a ship-master and sailed in the employ of G. & I. Lord, who at that time were managing owners in many ships from a little red store at Kennebunk Landing.

He married December 29, 1829, at Cape Porpoise, Me., Sarah Kimball, daughter of James and Eunice (Stone) Kimball.

He died December 13, 1835, at Kennebunk.

John Clement Lord, son of John and Sarah (Kimball) Lord,

Was born February 14, 1833, at Kennebunk. He went to sea in the employ of G. & I. Lord when but thirteen years of age; was first officer of an 1100 ton ship when seventeen, and was given command of the ship "Josephus," George C. Lord & Co., managing owners, when he was twenty-one. Later he was in the employ of Howes & Crowell, shipping merchants of New York, and his last employment in the merchant service was with the Pacific Mail S. S. Co.

He was four years in the United States Navy during the Civil War as Acting Ensign, Navigator, and Ordnance Officer, and was wounded in the assault of Fort Fisher, where he lost his right hand.

He married January 21, 1857, at London, Eng., Elizabeth Mitchell of Hastings, who died January 20, 1893, at Kennebunk. At this time (1912) he is an officer of the Sailors' Snug Harbor, at New Brighton, Staten Island, N. Y. He has two children: Arthur Hastings Lord, now living at Los Angeles, Cal., and Elizabeth Virginia Lord, residing at Chicago.

Samuel Lord, Jr., son of Samuel and Hannah (Jefferds) Lord,

Was born January 7, 1806, at Kennebunk, and went into the ship brokerage business in New York in 1830. He married in May, 1831, at Brooklyn, Elizabeth Ruthven, daughter of James and Jane Ruthven, and in January, 1834, took his father into business with him at 36 South Street. His health failing he went out of business the next November, and soon afterwards left New York for Terre Haute, Ind., where he died May 16, 1841.

James Ruthven Lord, son of Samuel, Jr., and Elizabeth (Ruthven) Lord,

Was born July 9, 1837, at Terre Haute, Ind. When about four years of age his father died, and his mother returned to live with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Ruthven, in Bridgeport, Conn. In 1847, his mother having died, his grandparents took him to New York to live with them on 23d Street.

When a young man Mr. Lord went to Pittsburgh, where he was purchasing agent for the Fort Wayne Railroad for several years. Later he returned to New York, where he became a partner in the firm of McGibbon & Co. and remained there until his death, May 26, 1909.

He married June 1, 1887, at East Orange, N. J., Annie Philips Jennings, daughter of J. Frank and Fanny (Blinks) Jennings, of Newark, N. J. After his marriage he resided at East Orange.

Nathaniel Lord, second son of Lieut. Tobias and Mehitable (Scammon) Lord,

Was born June 1, 1776, at Moulton's Mills in Sanford, Me., and lived most of his life at Arundel, since called Kennebunkport. He was a business man of excellent standing, and was noted for his remarkable memory. It is said that he kept no account books, but carried the details of his large shipping business in his head, meeting all obligations promptly.

Records in the old Custom House at Kennebunkport, dating from 1800, make mention of Mr. Lord's name as consignee of various cargoes received from many different ports in the West Indies, and also some from Liverpool, with additional information as to duties imposed, tonnage of vessels, and other interesting statistics regarding the shipping of those early days.

His ships, the largest being about 250 tons, brought iron, coal, salt, etc., safely to port when the enemy's ships-of-war were already on the seas in search of American commerce. Mr. Lord built a large mansion house at Kennebunkport during the War of 1812–14, chiefly, it was said, to furnish work to otherwise unemployed ship carpenters.

Nathaniel Lord married July 2, 1797, at Kennebunkport, Phoebe Walker, daughter of Capt. Daniel and Lois (Stone) Walker. He died February 24, 1815, at Kennebunkport, in his 39th year.

Daniel Walker Lord, eldest son of Nathaniel and Phoebe (Walker) Lord,

Was born March 29, 1800, at Kennebunkport. His school days, at Gorham Academy and at Portland being ended, he entered an active business life at the age of nineteen, in partnership with older men engaged in the West India trade. His interest in shipping thus begun, developed with the years, and continued throughout the greater part of his life.

November 23, 1824, he married Lydia Abbot of Westford, Mass., daughter of Joel and Lydia Cummings Abbot. Two years later, — when twenty-six years of age, — he was elected to the State Legislature, where he served for several years; and later, was made a member of the Governor's Council.

Interested always in all that concerned the welfare of humanity, Mr. Lord was one of those who, in the middle of the last century, gave voice and influence in behalf of the establishment of the Maine Prohibitory Law. During the years from 1855 to 1880, he was a member of the Board of Trustees of Bowdoin College.

As a ship-owner and merchant, he was known in the principal ports of the world, to which, through a long period of years, his ships were sent.

His wife, Lydia Abbot Lord died June 13, 1851. He married January 5, 1853, Lydia Patterson, daughter of Capt. Actor Patten and Lydia (Hutchins) Patterson, of Kennebunkport.

His later years were spent in Malden, Mass., where he died September 4, 1880. A man of strong character, and reverent to a marked degree.

Charles Austin Lord, son of Nathaniel and Phoebe (Walker) Lord,

Was born May 11, 1806, at Kennebunkport. He graduated at Bowdoin College in 1825, and received the degree of A. M. in 1829.

Mr. Lord was active in the early temperance movement in New York, and in the formation of the first Temperance Society in that city.

From 1827 to 1832 he engaged in publishing books in New York, and following that became Professor of Languages at Marion College, in Missouri, for several years. Later on he occupied the position of Editor of the "Christian Mirror," a religious paper published at Portland, Me.

He married May 3, 1831, at Scarborough, Me., Ernestine Libby, daughter of Capt. Stephen and Agnes (Hasty) Libby.

In 1854 he was chosen Superintendent of Schools for the State of Maine, and from 1856 to 1878 he was an Overseer of Bowdoin College. Mr. Lord died August 7, 1878, at Portland, leaving six children.

Nathaniel Lord, son of Nathaniel and Phoebe (Walker) Lord,

Was born April 11, 1808, at Kennebunkport, Me., and died July 10, 1852, on the Sacramento River, Cal. He prepared for college at Phillips Academy, Andover, Mass., and entered Norwich Academy at Northfield, Vt., in 1823, graduating in 1825. Soon after leaving the Academy he removed to Bangor, Me., where he soon became identified with several business enterprises; he engaged in mercantile business until 1849, and was also interested in real estate and timber lands.

In 1849 he took a steamboat, the "Governor Dana," to California, on board a sailing vessel around Cape Horn, going himself by way of the Isthmus of Panama. He was managing owner of this boat, which ran from Sacramento City up the river to Marysville. He returned to Bangor in 1851, and went again to California in 1852, when he was accidentally killed by the discharge of a pistol.

He was a Whig in politics, and held several positions for his party; was a member of the Bangor City Council, 1837–38, 1843–44, and City Treasurer, 1839–41.

He married October 12, 1835, at Bangor, Frances Augusta Hunt Veazie, daughter of Gen. Samuel and Susanna (Walker) Veazie, and had seven children.

Charles Veazie Lord, son of Nathaniel and Frances Augusta Hunt (Veazie) Lord,

Was born August 17, 1836, at Bangor, Me., and died there September 26, 1905.

In 1849, at his own desire, he was sent to California in charge of a tutor, at the time of the "Gold Fever," making the voyage in a sailing vessel, aboard of which was carried the steamboat "Governor Dana" which was owned by his father, and his grandfather Gen. Veazie. This was the first steamboat to navigate the Sacramento River. He returned the next year with his father, via the Isthmus of Panama. He then attended as a student the Kennebunk school, later Phillips Academy at Andover, afterwards entering Norwich University at Northfield, Vt., where he remained two years. Leaving the University he went again to California in the interests of Gen. Veazie, to close the steamboat business.

Returning to Bangor he engaged in various business enterprises, eventually becoming President of the Union Iron Works, which position he held until his death. In 1879 he became President of the Veazie National Bank, and in 1903 of the Bangor Savings Bank, and remained at the head of both of these institutions during his life.

He was a member of the Second Maine Volunteers, serving as Quartermaster and First Lieutenant from May 3, 1861, to September 19, 1861, when he resigned his commission for imperative business interests. He was a Republican in politics, served as a member of the Bangor City Council, 1873–75, and represented his district in the State Legislature in 1878.

He married May 24, 1861, at the Astor House, New York, Frances Elizabeth Strickland, daughter of Gen. Samuel P. Strickland, while on his way to the front. Two children were born to them: Frances Veazie, who married Paul Blatchford, and resides at Oak Park, Ill., and Nathaniel Lord, who resides at Bangor.

Charles Peter Clark, Sr., son of Peter and Susan (Lord) Clark, and grandson of Nathaniel Lord, Sr.,

Was born August 11, 1836, at Nashua, N. H. His preparation for college was completed at Phillips Academy, at Andover, Mass., and he entered Dartmouth College in 1852, but on account of ill health was obliged to leave his class at the end of the first year, and took a long sea voyage. On his return after a year's absence he resumed his college life, but at the end of another year finding his health unequal to the demands upon it he gave up all thought of college, and having acquired a liking for a sea-faring life he purchased a small vessel, and went into the African trade from Boston. He at first employed a captain, and accompanied the vessel as supercargo, but rapidly learning how to navigate his ship, soon became his own captain, and continued successfully in this business for several years acquiring a serviceable knowledge of commercial affairs.

He married October 21, 1857, at Portland, Me., Caroline Tyler, daughter of Samuel and Elizabeth (Spring). Tyler.

October 8, 1862, he was appointed Acting Ensign in the Navy, and on June 9, 1863, he was assigned to the command of the sloop "Rosalie," where he showed such zeal and ability in capturing many blockade runners that on July 18 of the same year he was promoted to be Acting Master, and placed in command of the schooner "Sea Bird," cruising in the Gulf of Mexico. Here he continued to participate in the capture of many vessels including the British steamer "Mail" with 160 bales of cotton.

He was given command of the ironclad "Carondelet," December 22, 1864, doing patrol duty on the Tennessee River, and a little later was transferred to the "Benton."

November 20, 1865, the war having ended, he was honorably discharged and at once engaged in business at St. Louis, Mo.; but he soon returned to Boston where he became a partner in a shipping firm.

In August, 1870, he became clerk to the Receivers of the Boston, Hartford & Erie Railroad, and this was the humble beginning of a notable career in railroading. The Company was reorganized in 1873 as the New York & New England Railroad Company, and he was appointed General Manager. Within six years he became President, still retaining the position of General Manager, an office which he soon resigned, and went to Europe for two years. Near the close of 1881 he returned to become Second Vice-President of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad, having his headquarters in New York. Two years later, the New York & New England being then in financial straits, he was recalled as its President and soon became its Receiver in bankruptcy.

In two years the railroad having again resumed business, he became its President for the third time, only to resign a year later, and in March, 1887, he became President of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Company where he remained in control for twelve years; the mileage of the road increasing in that time from 265 miles to a great system extending over 2,000 miles of track. He was the first to run passenger trains by electricity — by means of a third rail — over tracks designed for steam-hauled trains.

The South Station in Boston, the largest railroad station in the world for many years, is the result of his plan for uniting all the railroads entering Boston from the south and west. Mr. Clark retired from the road November 11, 1899, on account of ill health, and spent a large part of the remainder of his life in Europe.

He died March 21, 1901, at Nice, France.

William Lord, Jr.,

Was born September 5, 1803, at Kennebunkport, and went to sea when about twelve years of age, and was master of a vessel before he was twenty-one. After following the sea as master for about ten years he retired and was engaged with G. & I. Lord, George Callender & Co., George C. Lord & Co., and others, in building vessels at the "Port." Among others were the ship "William Lord, Jr.," 1250 tons, and the barque "Union," 666 tons, which were finished in 1856.

Capt. Lord was one of the incorporators of the Ocean Bank at Kennebunk, and remained a director up to the time of his death. When the Western Union Telegraph Co. built its line from the depot to the village he was one of the sureties to guarantee them against loss.

He was very much interested in the First Parish Church (Unitarian) of Kennebunk, giving an organ in 1850 which gave good service for nearly fifty years. He also gave the town clock which was placed in the church steeple, and the organ in the first Channing Church building at Newton, Mass.

In 1844 he moved from his house on Dane Street, afterwards occupied by Mrs. Capt. Daniel Nason, Jr., to the house he purchased of Mrs. Priscilla Storer, on Storer Street (in which Lafayette was entertained while on his journey to Portland). Here he remained until his death, May 24, 1860.

He took an active interest in State and town affairs, and in the cause of temperance.

Tobias Lord, the third son of Lieut. Tobias and Mehitable (Scammon) Lord,

Was born April 6, 1778. His parents moved that year from Sanford to Kennebunk, and it is doubtful in which of these towns he was born. He married 1st, January 3, 1799, Hannah Perkins, daughter of Capt. Ephraim Perkins of Kennebunkport, and moved to Boston about 1811.

Between 1818 and 1828 he was one of the largest shipping merchants in Boston, having an office at 41 Long Wharf, and a house on Washington Place (Fort Hill). He then met with serious reverses in business, and moving to New York in 1830, he established himself at 30 South Street. In March, 1832, he bought a farm in Johnstone, N. Y., about forty miles north of Albany, where he lived for over a year. In 1834 we find him in Boston again, doing a commission business at 13 Central Wharf, but not meeting with success he moved in December of that year to New York and started in the wholesale grocery business at 121 Water Street. From 1842 to 1848 he resided in Jersey City.

He and his wife Hannah joined the Old South Church in Boston, October 26, 1828. His first wife, Hannah Perkins, died while on a visit to Boston, July 31, 1846, and he married 2d, in 1848, in New York, Mrs. Sarah (Adams) Perkins, daughter of Charles and Hannah Adams, and widow of a Mr. Perkins, said to be a brother of his first wife. After his second marriage he continued to live for a short time at the New England House in New York and in 1850 moved to Woodbridge, N. J., where he joined the Presbyterian Church in 1852.

He died September 4, 1854, aged 76 years. He was a man of great perseverance and strength of character, and in appearance strongly resembled Daniel Webster.

Ephraim Perkins Lord, eldest son of Tobias, 3d, and Hannah (Perkins) Lord,

Was born October 15, 1799, at Kennebunk. He followed the sea for a number of years in his youth, and was considered an expert navigator, gaining quite a reputation among the sea captains of Bucksport and vicinity as a teacher of that branch of mathematics, and was known as Captain in his later years.

He married February 14, 1825, at Bucksport, Me., Ruby Spofford, daughter of Daniel Spofford of Bucksport. After his marriage he settled down to a life ashore, and engaged in the ship chandlery business in Portland for a number of years. Later Capt. Lord went into the same business in New Orleans for a time, but was not successful there, and returned to Bucksport where he died December 18, 1867, at the age of 68 years.

James Lawrence Lord, son of Tobias, 3d, and Hannah (Perkins) Lord,

Was born December 16, 1813, at Bucksport, Me., and married April 18, 1847, at Chester, Conn., Ruth Jennette Auger, daughter of Lebbeus and Ruth McCollum Auger. He moved from New York to Chester about 1845, where for over thirty years he owned an iron foundry which was well known throughout that part of Connecticut. Later in life he travelled in Maine selling hydraulic machinery.

Soon after his marriage he joined the Congregational Church at Chester, and he died there September 25, 1892, at the age of 79 years.

George Willis Lord, son of Tobias, 3d, and Hannah (Perkins) Lord,

Was born September 24, 1815, at Boston, and went with his parents to live at New York in 1830. He practiced law at Monticello, N. Y., for ten or twelve years, and then removed to Newburgh and from there to New York, where he was very successful in his practice.

He married in 1838 at Mount Hope, N. Y., Jane Stackhouse, daughter of Charles and Elizabeth Stackhouse. They had two children, Hannah and Julia. She died at Mount Hope in May, 1844.

He married for the second time, in August, 1847, at Monticello, Marietta P. Lindermann, daughter of David Lindermann, of Belleville, N. Y., and had five children by her, Alice, Jane, George, Christine and Frederick.

He died September 14, 1887, at New York.

Descendants of Lieut. Tobias and Hephzibah (Conant) Lord.

Francis Osborne Watts, son of Francis and Mehitable (Lord) Watts,

Was born August 9, 1803, at Kennebunk, Me. He entered Harvard College at the age of fifteen, graduated in August, 1822, and was admitted to the Bar in October, 1825.

He married May 1, 1826, at Roxbury (Boston), Caroline Goddard, daughter of Dr. Thatcher and Lucy (Wiswall) Goddard.

In 1851 he was elected the first President of the first Young Men's Christian Association in this country, which was then established in Boston. He was a member of the Episcopal Church, and was a man of exemplary character.

Mr. Watts died September 28, 1860, at Boston.

Capt. Charles Williams, son of Charles White and Abigail (Lord) Williams,

Was born November 28, 1807, at Kennebunk, Me., and died April 18, 1822, at Framingham, Mass. He married October 14, 1834, at Kennebunk, Diantha Livermore Fiske, daughter of John and Azubah (Purse) Fiske; she was born October 14, 1815, and died August 2, 1857, at Framingham

At the early age of eighteen he went as supercargo in one of his father's vessels of which he took command when twenty-one. Afterwards, for many years, he commanded various ships of which he was part owner, and made many voyages to European ports. As a shipmaster Captain Williams was successful and fortunate, meeting with but one serious disaster during his seafaring life. He was also noted for the unusual way in which he managed his crews. He ruled with a gentle firmness entirely unlike the arbitrary roughness which is so common upon the sea.

Captain Williams preserved throughout his life a gentleness and purity of character very remarkable in one of his occupation and experience. After he ceased to follow the sea he was for some years interested in shipping, but his last years were passed in Framingham in a quiet country life which he thoroughly enjoyed. In the church of his early home he was for some time Sunday School Superintendent, and at Framingham he was deacon and church treasurer.

Robert Waterston, son of Robert and Helen (Cassie) Waterston,

Was born February 12, 1778, at Edinburgh, Scotland, his father's house being situated in a small court or square called the "Mint," where the money of the realm was coined when Scotland had a government of her own.

Before he was two years old he was placed with his maternal grandfather, Robert Cassie, who was a linen manufacturer residing at North Berwick, a small seaport town on the Frith of Forth, twenty-two miles to the eastward of Edinburgh, where he lived for some years.

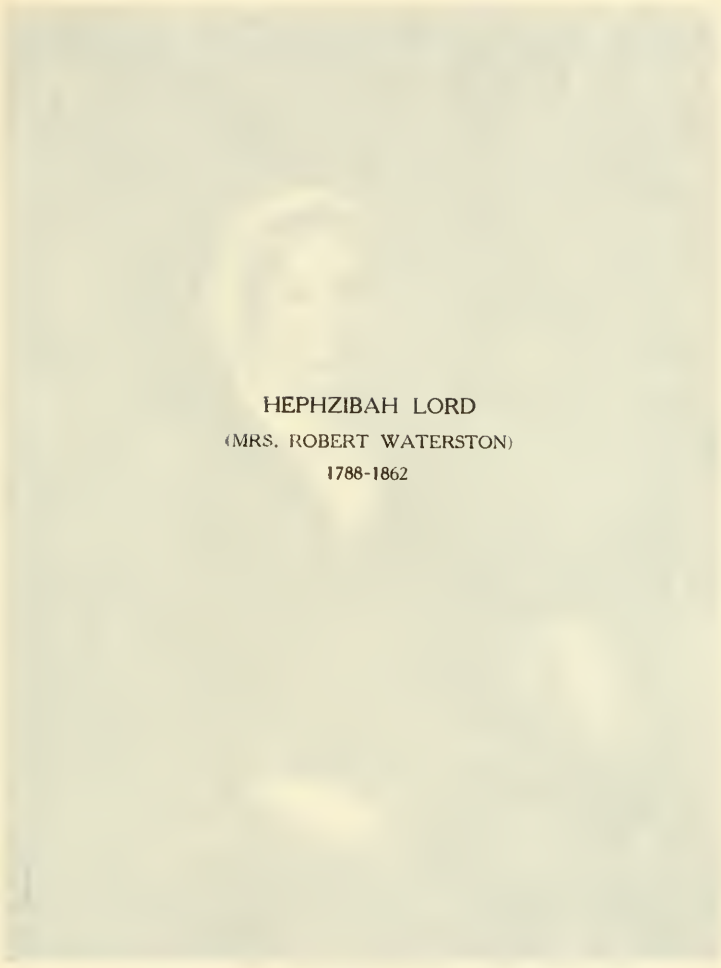

His father passing away at Edinburgh, March 27, 1782, his mother married Mr. Robert Ruthven, a wholesale and retail dry-goods merchant in Edinburgh, and in 1786 he returned to his mother's home, and was sent to school, and under the instruction of James Purves continued his studies

Mr. Purves performed the duties of a minister as well as those of a schoolmaster, preaching on Sundays to a small body of worshipers who had discarded the popular doctrines of that day as they were held both in the Established Church, and in the churches of the Dissenters.

After Mr. Waterston's return to Edinburgh he always accompanied his parents to these meetings, and the religious teaching which he received greatly influenced the whole of his life. At the age of twelve years he began his business life, entering the store of his step-father, and in 1800 he was admitted as a partner in the business under the style of Ruthven & Waterston. Their store was in the Old Town on the corner of High Street and St. Mary's "Wynd," just where the famous "Netherbow Port," the eastern entrance to the city, stood.

Having early imbibed a love of republican institutions he resolved at the age of twenty-five "to breathe the free air of the States," without however having formed any definite plans as to his future course, and embarked on the brig "Belisarius" at Greenock on August 5, 1803, and after a passage of fifty-one days, ending September 25, he landed at Boston which he made his headquarters.

In April, 1805, he formed a co-partnership with Mr. Isaac C. Pray of South Berwick, Me., where he had some business transactions, and in September he returned to Edinburgh, taking passage on a Liverpool packet, arriving in eighteen days.

Mr. Waterston remained in Edinburgh until the following spring, when having decided to make this country his permanent home, the firm of Ruthven & Waterston was dissolved March 11, 1806, and in May he re-embarked from Greenock in the "Fanny," arriving at New York June 16, where taking a packet to Newport and coach to Boston, he was soon back in Maine.

The village of South Berwick offering too limited a field, a branch of their business was after a few years established in Kennebunk, then a part of "Old Wells," and to this place Mr. Waterston removed.

He married December 25, 1810, at Alfred, Hephzibah Lord, and lived on Fletcher Street, near Main, until 1815, when he removed with his family to Boston.

In 1813 Waterston & Pray established themselves in Boston, and the firm under that name, and under the style of Waterston, Pray & Company, and subsequently under that of Waterston, Deane & Company, were for many years well known throughout the country, first as importers of dry goods, and afterwards as commission merchants for the sale of domestic goods. The senior partners were early engaged in fostering the growth of American manufactures, investing their capital largely in these enterprises.

In 1816 Mr. Waterston returned to Edinburgh, and his step-father, Robert Ruthven having died, his mother and his two step-sisters, the Misses Ruthven, returned with him in 1817 to make their home here. He revisited Scotland in 1824, 1852 and 1856.

In 1821 his house was on Fort Hill at the corner of High and Oliver Streets, and he lived there until 1851 when he removed to 8 Bulfinch Place. Mr. Waterston retired from business in 1857, at the age of 79 years. The last twelve years of his life were spent in quiet retirement among his friends. He died August 30, 1869, at Boston, at the age of ninety-one. He left four children: Robert Cassie, who married Anna C. L. Quincy; Helen Elizabeth, who married Charles Deane; Lucy Augusta Hayes, who married George Greig, and Marion Ruthven, who married her cousin George Clement Lord.

Robert Cassie Waterston, son of Robert and Hephzibah (Lord) Waterston,

Was born March 20, 1812, at Kennebunk, Me. His parents removed to Boston in 1815–16, where they resided on Fort Hill, and he was educated at the Brookline Academy, and at the Boston High School until he was fifteen years of age, and then entered the employ of Mr. Henry Rice, hardware and English goods, at 54 Kilby Street. Here he met with an accident which confined him to his bed for more than six months, and this seclusion from an active business life turned his attention to books, and also developed a natural taste for drawing.

From 1834 to 1836 he was doing business under his own name at 73 Kilby Street. A little later he decided to enter the ministry, and became Superintendent of Father Taylor's Bethel Sunday School, where began his power of fluent and intensely sympathetic speech which won the hearts of so many throughout his life.

While attending the Divinity School at Cambridge, he became acquainted with Miss Anna Cabot Lowell Quincy, daughter of Josiah Quincy, Senior, who was at that time President of Harvard College, and married her April 22, 1840. His preference for a connection with the ministry at large led him to accept the pastorate of the Church of the Saviour (Unitarian), on Bedford Street, where he preached seven years, living at the time at Essex Street. He afterwards temporarily occupied the pulpit in Taunton and in Augusta, Me.

Mr. Waterston visited Europe twice, the second time with his wife and daughter, and was an intelligent student of its wonders of art and historical monuments. His daughter, Helen, passed away at Naples, Italy, July 25, 1858, the shadow of which event never left his subsequent life which was spent at his winter home, 71 Chester Square, and on his estate at Whitefield, N. H.

He died February 21, 1893, at his Boston house, leaving his large collection of rare books and autographs to the Massachusetts Historical Society, together with an ample fund to insure their care and preservation.

Charles Deane, son of Dr. Ezra and Mary (Moody) Deane,

Was born November 10, 1813, at Biddeford, Me., and entered the employ of Waterston, Pray & Co., at 16 Kilby Street, Boston, in August, 1833, becoming a member of the firm in 1840.

He married April 28, 1841, Helen Elizabeth Waterston, daughter of Robert and Hephzibah (Lord) Waterston, and after his marriage lived at 11 Edinboro Street, moving to 80 Sparks Street, Cambridge, in 1847.

In 1855 the firm name was changed to Waterston, Deane & Co., and in 1857 upon the retirement of Mr. Waterston, it was again changed to Richardson, Deane & Co. After a successful business career he retired in 1864.

Mr. Deane's studies early made him familiar with the beginnings of our American history both in New England and in Virginia, and he became an historical scholar almost without equal among his American contemporaries in his particular line of research. His first literary work was published in 1846, and he became a member of the Massachusetts Historical Society in 1849.

He died November 13, 1889, at Cambridge, aged 76 years.

George Greig, son of James and Catherine (Turpie) Greig,

Was born April 13, 1815, at Kinghorn, Fife, Scotland. When a small boy he went to Edinburgh, and for several years was in a lawyer's office. Later he came out to Halifax and from thence to Boston. In 1846 he joined a Mr. Elliott and formed a partnership under the name of Elliott & Greig, commission merchants, with office at 10 Merchants Exchange, and resided at that time at 1 Bumstead Place.

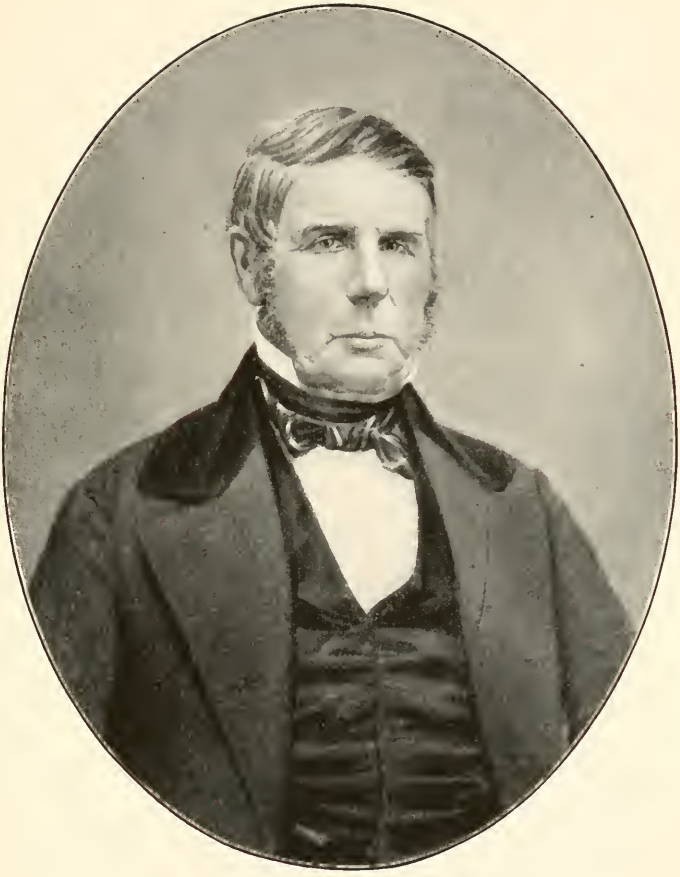

He married March 26, 1847, at Boston, Lucy Augusta Hayes Waterston, daughter of Robert and Hephzibah (Lord) Waterston, and grand-daughter of Lieut. Tobias Lord, and went to live at 1 Otis Place, in 1850 moving to 10 Otis Place.

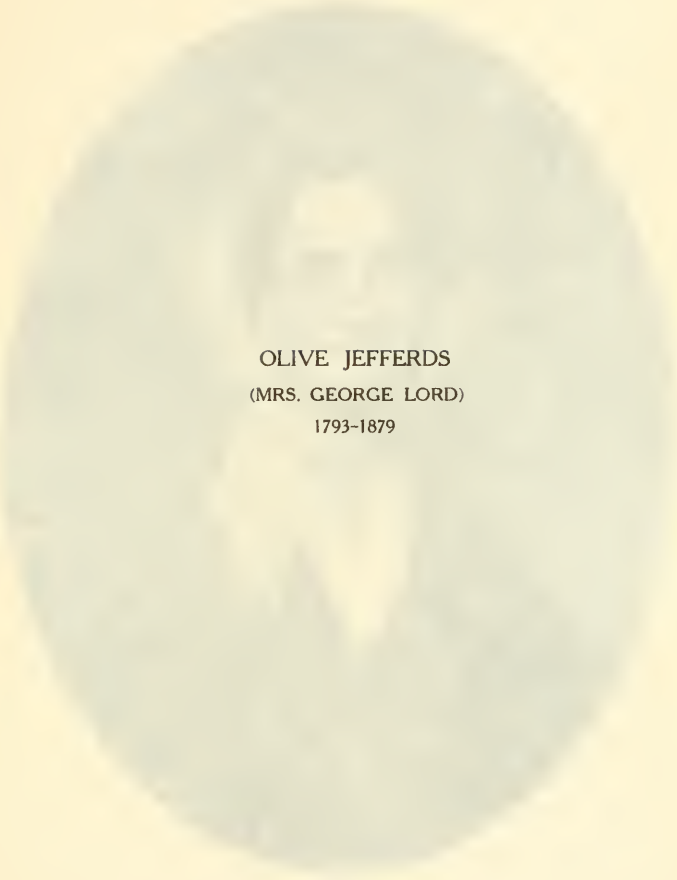

In 1852 the firm name was changed to George Greig & Co., with office at 32 Long Wharf, and in 1854, taking in a Mr. William A. Rutherford with him, the business office was moved to 81 State Street.

In June, 1855, he purchased an estate on the easterly slope of Nonantum Hill, on the boundary line between Boston and Newton, where he lived until 1862 when he removed with his family to Beachville, Ontario, Canada. Here he turned his attention to farming, and was much interested in "shorthorn" cattle. In 1871 he moved to Toronto, where he became connected with several Insurance and Loan Companies.

He died December 15, 1896, at Toronto, aged 81 years.

George Lord, the eldest son of Lieut. Tobias and Hephzibah (Conant) Lord,

Was born September 23, 1791, at Kennebunk, Me., and in his early manhood, like many of his early associates, followed the sea. At that time the ship-owner, or interested captain, not infrequently sent out the cargo as well as the ship, and profited thereby. He sailed in 1815 as master of the brig "Alliance," of 155 tons, of Kennebunk, and at another time, it is thought, of the brig "Herschel," a vessel of the fashion of those days, having varnished "bright sides," and several painted stripes along the hull.

On one occasion, when at home from sea, and visiting Limerick Academy, where his younger brother William was being educated, and also his fiancé, Miss Olive Jefferds, the cupola of the academy (which was situated upon a hill at the entrance to the village) was seen to be on fire, and among the foremost to climb to it and assist in extinguishing the flames was George Lord, the youthful sailor.

In September, 1817, having retired from the sea, Mr. Lord formed a partnership with his brother Ivory, doing a shipping business under the firm name of G. & I. Lord at Kennebunk Landing. He resided at Kennebunk Landing in a substantial two-storied white house directly opposite the ship-yard. The small vessels built by the two brothers, and in which other members of the family were also interested, were the brig "Vine," of 170 tons, launched in 1825; and in the years following, the brigs "York" and "Reward," of 267 and 140 tons respectively, and soon afterwards the brig "Hudson," of 291 tons.

At the time of the election of Gen. Andrew Jackson to the presidency, many members of the Whig Party, to which George and Ivory belonged, feared that it foretold the ruin of the country's prosperity, and the brothers allowed their ship-yard to remain idle; but as the trend of events did not indicate universal misfortune, they took courage again, and laid the keel of the brig "Lima" in 1830, in their yard, where it was first found necessary to mow a harvest of thistles, which had quite overgrown the premises during the period of inaction. Besides the above-named vessels Mr. Lord was principal owner in the early schooner "Beluga," brigs "Francis," "George," and "Ivory Lord," barques "Bohemia" and "Finland," and ships "York," "Riga," "Ancona," and "Henry Ware."

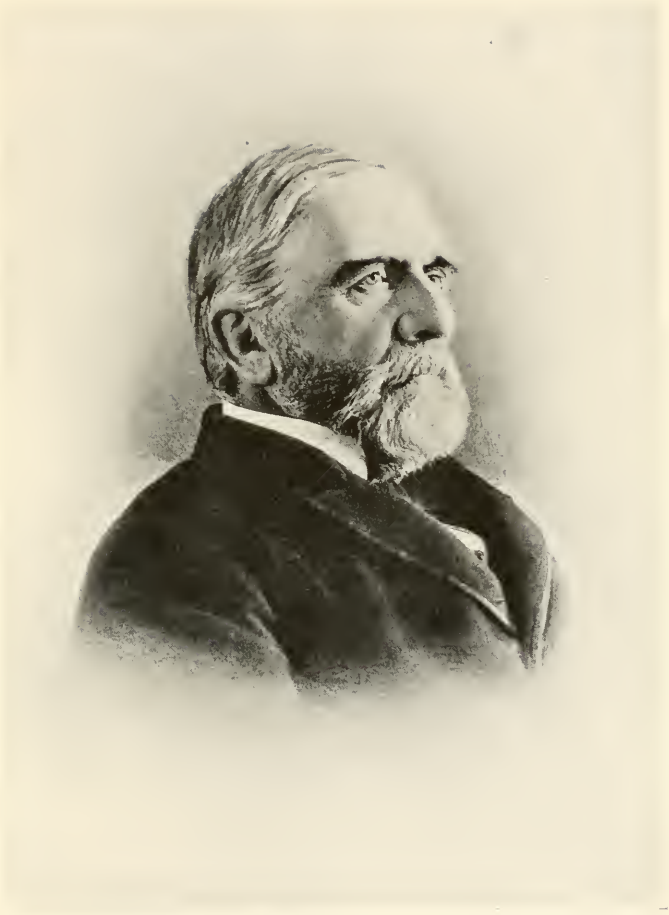

In 1833 he began the construction of a dwelling at the increasing main village of Kennebunk, a mile or more above the place of his first residence. It had pillared piazzas and a balustrade above the eaves, and within was a wide hall and drawing-rooms separated by sliding doors, then an innovation. A large ell attached to a broad barn with arch-finished front completed the set of buildings.

A large horse-chestnut tree, white in its season with many blossoms, later shaded the side doorway, while honey-suckle vines climbed the pillars of the porches. Within the kitchen stood a tall clock, having above the dial the figure of a ship, as if sailing at sea, and which, slowly rocking to and fro, was the wonder of the children. This clock is now owned by his grandson, Charles E. Lord. The walks from the house to the street were flagged. The house was made ready for the family's use the following year. Here Mr. Lord resided many years, continuing to be interested in many vessels, and associate owner in later and larger ships than he and his brother had constructed, and which were managed by his son, George C. Lord.

George Lord was a Free Mason, having joined York Lodge No. 22, Free and Accepted Masons, June 6, 1814. He married April 22, 1816, at Kennebunk, Olive Jefferds, daughter of Major William and Olive (Gilpatrick) Jefferds, and had seven children. After a long life, useful in church and society, he died October 8, 1861, at his home in Kennebunk, leaving a widow, and three sons, George Clement, Charles Howard and Edward Watts.

George Clement Lord, son of George and Olive (Jefferds) Lord,

Was born February 27, 1823, at Kennebunk, Me., at the Landing. Until sixteen years of age he attended the public schools of his native town, finishing his studies at Dummer Academy at Byfield, Mass., in 1838. In 1839 came to Boston and entered as a clerk in the dry-goods house of Holbrook, Bowman & Co., at 39 Kilby Street. In 1843 he became a partner in the firm of Demond, Howe & Co., wholesale grocers at 24 Long Wharf, and lived at 26 Pearl Street until 1845, when he moved to 57 High Street. In 1846 the firm name was changed to Howe & Lord.

Though still a young man he displayed a special aptitude for business and successfully crossed the threshold of a career in which he became one of the substantial and respected merchants of Boston. In 1847 he formed with his brother, Charles H. Lord, the firm of George C. Lord & Co., which for many years was largely engaged in the shipping business, and built and managed a fleet of vessels which found their way into the waters of every sea.

In May, 1846, he purchased a house at 13 Edinboro Street, and on September 22d of that year (1846) married at Boston, his cousin Marion Ruthven Waterston, daughter of Robert and Hephzibah (Lord) Waterston.

In October, 1848, he moved his family from 13 Edinboro Street, Boston, to Newton, residing at that time on the northerly side of Waban Park. In April, 1861, he moved to the westerly slope of Nonantum Hill, where his estate comprised very nearly the entire square bounded by Franklin, Park and Sargent Streets and Waverly Avenue.

About 1865 he was elected President of the New England Mutual Fire & Marine Insurance Co., and until 1881 devoted himself to its service. In 1866 he became a director of the Boston & Maine Railroad, in 1880 Vice- President, and in 1881 President, — a position he held for eight years, in which time the mileage of road operated increased from 202 to 1210, the number of passengers carried from 5,325,000 to 28,719,000, the employees from 1,763 to 9,769, and dividends were paid to the amount of $4,865,000. During his term of office as Director and President, the extension of the Boston & Maine Railroad was built from South Berwick to Portland, and the Eastern Railroad and Boston & Lowell Railroad were merged into the Boston & Maine.

He always felt a deep interest in the welfare of Newton, assisting in the formation and aiding in the support of the Free Public Library, and was especially earnest and liberal as a member of the Channing (Unitarian) Church. He was chairman of the building committee of the first meeting-house erected in 1856 on Washington Street, Newton, and also of the present edifice erected in 1881, and for many years was chairman of its standing committee. For several years he was one of the Sinking Fund Commissioners of Newton.

At the time of his death he was a Director of the Second National Bank of Boston, the Boston Safe Deposit and Trust Co., the American Loan and Trust Co., the John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Co., the Worcester, Nashua & Rochester Railroad, the York Harbor & Beach Railroad, and the Newton & Watertown Gas Light Co.

He passed away at his home on Waverly Avenue, Newton, February 23, 1893, leaving a widow, and two sons and a daughter: Robert Waterston Lord, Charles Edward Lord, and Marion Ruthven Lord.

Charles Howard Lord, son of George and Olive (Jefferds) Lord,

Was born January 20, 1825, at Kennebunk. He was educated at the academy at Kennebunk, and was at Phillips Academy at Andover, in the class of 1843.

In 1845 he entered the employ of Burns, Halliburton & Co., commission merchants, at 26 Broadway, New York, and resided at 85 Broadway. Here he remained until 1848, with the exception of some months spent abroad, when he returned to Boston and with his brother, George Clement Lord, formed the firm of George C. Lord & Co., commission merchants, owning and managing owners of many vessels in "long voyage business," with an office at 73 Long Wharf. He lived with his brother at 13 Edinboro Street.

He married June 5, 1849, Lucy Lord Hayes, daughter of Joseph M. and Susannah (Wildes) Hayes of Saco. He resided at 13 Edinboro Street until 1852 (his brother having removed to Newton in the fall of 1848), and later he boarded at the United States Hotel. In September, 1853, he moved to Newton, residing when at home on Waban Park, until 1860.

Together with Robert W. and Charles W. Lord he made a long stay in Europe, sailing from New York in the S. S. "America," September 26, 1864, for England. The younger men returned in September, 1866, but Mr. Lord with his wife remained abroad another year, visiting Egypt with a party of friends, and going up the Nile as far as the second cataract.

His brother, George C. Lord, becoming President of the New England Marine Insurance Co. in 1865, the firm of George C. Lord & Co. was dissolved. In 1869 Mr. Lord again entered into business under the old firm name of George C. Lord & Co., taking in as his partners Robert W. Lord and Charles W. Lord, and continuing in the same line of business as before.

He resided at that time and until his decease at the corner of Park and Franklin Streets, Newton. Being more or less an invalid, for the greater part of his life he spent most of his winters in the south of this country and Europe, going as far west as the Hawaiian Islands, and as far east as the Holy Land.

He died at Newton, January 6, 1892.

Robert Waterston Lord, son of George Clement and Marion Ruthven (Waterston) Lord,

Was born December 23, 1847, at Boston, and attended the Allen School at West Newton, graduating in 1863.

In company with his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Lord, and his half cousin, Charles W. Lord, he sailed from New York, September 26, 1864, on the S. S. "American" for Southampton, Eng., and spent the next two years travelling about Europe, visiting Spain, Paris, Switzerland, Holland, Algiers, Sicily, Italy, Vienna, and Southern France, as well as Great Britain.

Returning home in 1866, he entered the employ of J. Henry Sears & Co., ship brokers, at 92 State Street, in 1867, where he remained until January 1, 1869, when he joined Charles H. Lord and Charles W. Lord in forming the new firm of George C. Lord & Co., at Merchants Exchange, 53 State Street, managing owners of vessels in foreign trade.

In 1874 he made a short visit to England and Wales on business, and later, in the summer of 1881; he made still another trip abroad with his wife.

He married September 22, 1875, at Brookline, Mass., Ella Bowman Green, daughter of Rear Admiral Joseph Foster and Ruth (Bowman) Green, and moved into his house, then on Cabot Street, Newton, in January, 1876. He was much interested in farming and kept quite a number of cows until his removal to Boston in the spring of 1887, where he resided at the corner of St. Stephen and Gainsborough Streets, until November, 1899, when he removed to 405 Marlboro' Street.

He took a trip through the Southern States including Florida, in the spring of 1896, and in 1902, together with his wife and friends sailed for Europe, visiting ports on the Mediterranean.

His interest in farming led him to spend most of the summers in his later years on the family estate, "The Elms," at Wells, Me., where he enjoyed raising a large herd of Guernseys.

The decline of American shipping during the '80s led to the sale of the vessels managed by George C. Lord & Co., and that firm went out of business in 1892. He had previously become interested in the sale of the land of the West End Land Co., and now added to that the charge of houses and estates. The Beacon Street Boulevard through Brookline, was built about 1888 under his supervision.

In the autumn of 1903 he took up his residence at 357 Marlboro' Street, where he lived until within a few months of his death, which occurred at the house of his brother at Newton, Mass., August 27, 1908. His wife, Ella G. Lord, died at Boston, March 25, 1904.

He was a member of the Exchange, Economic, and Oakley Country Clubs; the Boston Real Estate Exchange, American Guernsey Cattle Club, Sons of the American Revolution, President of the Simpson's Patent Dry Dock Co., at East Boston, a Director of the India Mutual Insurance Co., and a Trustee of the Mariners' House.

Ivory Lord, second son of Lieut. Tobias and Hephzibah (Conant) Lord,

Was born February 1, 1794, at Kennebunk, Me. After the removal of his father to the town of Alfred, Me., Ivory and his younger brother William received their elementary education from the pastor of the town. Later he followed the sea for a number of years, his voyages being principally to the West Indies, with which islands New England carried on an extensive trade, it being the period of its marked commercial development.

In 1815, while yet a young man, he became master of the brig "Favorite," of 131 tons, and in the year following of the ship "Hebrus," of 346 tons, which was a good-sized vessel for the times.

While engaged with his brother George in ship-building subsequent to 1825, he lived in the three-storied house that his father had built at Kennebunk Landing, and the red store building, also built by his father, was occupied by them for trade. Here groceries and tobacco were sold, the ship carpenters often taking a part of their wages in supplies. In the counting-room of the store they were accustomed to gather about the open fireplace, when at leisure, and relate their experiences as their predecessors had done at a somewhat earlier period, when the Napoleonic wars in Europe were creating so much of a sensation in the world. Directly after his brother George began the construction of his new house at Kennebunk village, Ivory also commenced to build on land adjoining his brother's, and constructed a large house and barn, with garden and orchard as well.

Ivory Lord married 1st, June 23, 1818, Louisa McCulloch, and as his second wife, June 6, 1843, Mrs. Olive L. (Bourne) Emerson.

In personal appearance he was considered to resemble his father, the energetic Lieut. Lord of the Revolutionary period, more nearly than did any other of his descendants. He died August 16, 1868, at Kennebunk, at the age of 74, leaving besides his widow and her two sons, two daughters, Louisa and Olive, and two sons, William Francis and John Adams, the children of his first wife Louisa.

William Francis Lord, eldest son of Capt. Ivory Lord,

Was born February 26, 1821, at Kennebunk, and died there December 20, 1883. He married June 4, 1844, at Kennebunk, Olive Matilda Porter, daughter of Horace and Lavina (Fisher)

Porter. She was born March 27, 1823, at Kennebunk, and died there January 22, 1890.

When a young man he engaged in the dry goods business in Kennebunk, and afterwards in the insurance business. He was a very helpful member of the Unitarian Parish, and was the first librarian of the Parish Library.

John Adams Lord, son of Ivory and Louisa (McCulloch) Lord,

Was born October 28, 1827, in the large three-story house built by his grandfather, Lieut. Tobias Lord, on the bank of the river at Kennebunk Landing in 1790, and occupied by his father, Ivory Lord, from the time of his marriage in 1818 until he removed with his family in 1834 to the house which he had built on Summer Street, at the upper village.

As a boy Mr. Lord attended the village schools, completing his studies at the Yarmouth Academy. In 1848 he made a voyage in the "Henry Ware," Capt. William Williams, to New Orleans and from thence to Liverpool. Two years later he took a second trip with Capt. Noah Nason, going around the world, spending considerable time at Calcutta and arriving at San Francisco in the early days of the "Gold Fever."

He married January 18, 1852, at Kennebunk, Lucy Amanda Warren, daughter of Alexander and Lucy (Kelly) Warren.

For a few years he occupied the house on Summer Street opposite the head of Elm Street, moving from there to a house then standing where is now the residence of Hartley Lord. About 1855–56 he built the house opposite his father's, where he lives at a ripe old age with his daughter, Kate Mears Lord.

Following his sea-faring life he became interested with others in the management of a mill for the manufacture of cotton yarns, batting, etc., located on the northerly side of the bridge crossing the Mousam River in the village. For many years past his time and attention have been given to his garden and farm.

Hercules M. Hayes,

Was born in 1790, at Dover, N. H., and at quite an early age entered the store of Waterston & Pray at Kennebunk, going with them to Boston in 1816, and becoming a member of the firm of Waterston, Pray & Co., in 1818.

He married September 10, 1818, at Kennebunk, Lucy Lord, daughter of Lieut. Tobias and Hephzibah (Conant) Lord.

Removing to New York in 1830, he became associated with the house of Burns, Halliburton & Co., and continued to reside in that city with the exception of one short interval (1839–41 when he was in Boston with Waterston, Pray & Co.) until his decease March 11, 1853. From the time of the death of his wife, November 6, 1823, he lived a singularly solitary life until his death.

While in New York he resided at 39 Broadway, and was connected with the First Congregational Church.

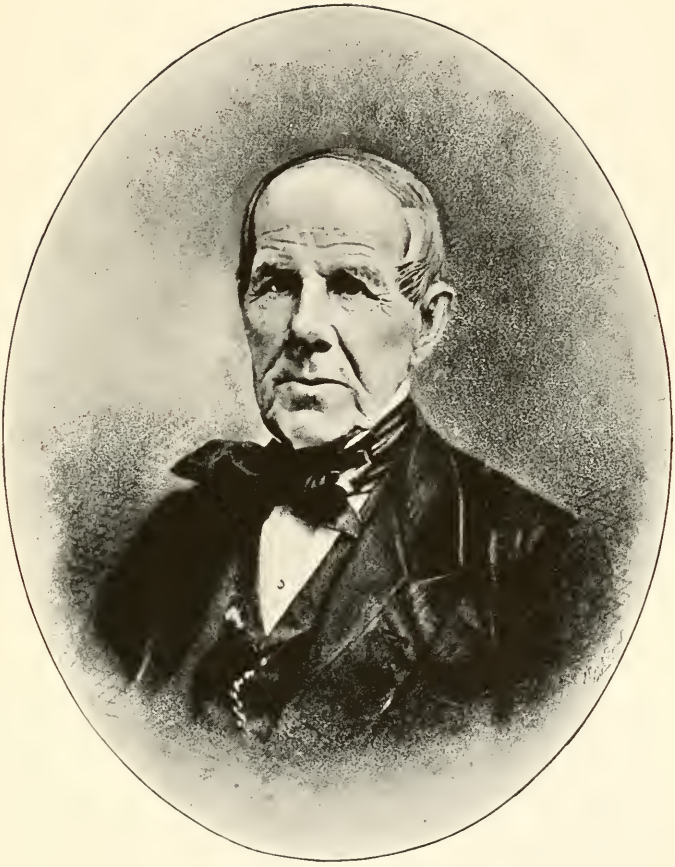

William Lord, the third son of Lieut. Tobias and Hephzibah (Conant) Lord,

Was born July 3, 1799, at Kennebunk Landing, Me., in the large three-storied house built by his father. In the parchment-covered book kept by the Rev. Daniel Little, and still preserved by the First Parish Congregational Society of Kennebunk, may be seen the record of his baptism. As a youth he shared in all of the sports of the boys of his neighborhood, with flint-locked gun in hand looking for game, gathering chips for the great chimney oven, or listening to stories of the Indians from his elders. Young William attended school at the Landing, the teacher being Hugh McCulloch, a stern disciplinarian.

Quite early in the century his father, to escape the cares of a life of exacting business, had begun the building of another house at Alfred, Me. Having reached an age when he could safely be sent away from home to school, William attended Limerick Academy, some miles above the town of Alfred. His boarding place was a large three-storied house near the academy, which still occupies its original site and is now used as a hotel.

William's sister, Hephzibah, had married Robert Waterston, a young merchant newly arrived from Scotland, who presently opened a shop in Kennebunk; William was his clerk for a while, and when Mr. Waterston removed to Boston for a wider field of business venture, young William followed him there, living in his sister's home. Later he boarded at Charlestown, still acting as one of the clerks in Mr. Waterston's store. Some time after this he attended Thornton Academy, in Saco, an institution which stood where the present Unitarian Church Vestry does now, in that town.

Mr. Lord married October 23, 1820, at Biddeford, Sarah Cleaves, daughter of David and Sarah (Fairfield) Cleaves.

His business career now began, and the rôle of merchant then offering inducements because of the development of the country, he opened a store in company with Mr. Henry Kingsbury, in the building at the corner of Green Lane and Main Street. At that time he occupied a house on Main Street, and there his eldest child, Sarah Cleaves Lord, was born in 1821.

In 1824 he purchased the large house which had been built by Judge Jonas Clark on the eminence afterwards known as Zion's Hill. Mr. Lord built there the long face-stone wall surmounted by a rail with iron standards, and planted Lombardy poplars.

In 1825 he built the substantial brick store building still standing on Main Street, nearly opposite the Unitarian Church. Mr. Lord occupied the store until 1840, and as merchants from Kennebunk had to visit Boston by stage or in their own conveyance during this period, he once drove from Kennebunk to the Eastern Stage Tavern in a sleigh. Shortly after this he was interested for a time in a company for the manufacture of cotton cloth; and later, in the baling and exporting of hay to New Orleans by the brig "Caroline" and other vessels.

Through this latter business he became interested in shipping, becoming part owner of the brig "Swiss Boy" and ship "Neva," the second "Neva" and the bark "Finland." Later, he had constructed the more modern ship "Hartley,"—which was commanded by his son, Capt. Hartley Lord, who was given an interest in the ship,—and the large ship "Windermere," first commanded by Mr. Lord's son, Capt. Daniel Cleaves Lord, then under twenty-four years of age. Afterwards Mr. Lord had major interests in the ships "Arno," "Sorrento" and "Cheltenham," which were under the business management of his son, Hartley Lord, who had now become a successful commission merchant of Boston. During this time Mr. Lord was also a director of the York Bank in Saco, and purchased and improved factory property comprising mill privileges, buildings, and many acres of land and standing pine timber of a century's growth. He also acquired the extensive Cousens farm of 100 acres, in the upper part of the town. These latter interests were supervised and generally cared for by his son Robert Waterston Lord.

An ardent Whig as to politics and later affiliated with the Republican party, Mr. Lord participated in the early presidential campaigns and saw his country safely through its great struggle for National unity.

In the interests of the community he was an active member of the "Sons of Temperance," and, associated with three other gentlemen, purchased the large three-storied Jefferds' Tavern on the hill, a land-mark of the town, for the purpose of staying its dilapidation and perversion of use, and which remains to-day the hotel of the place.

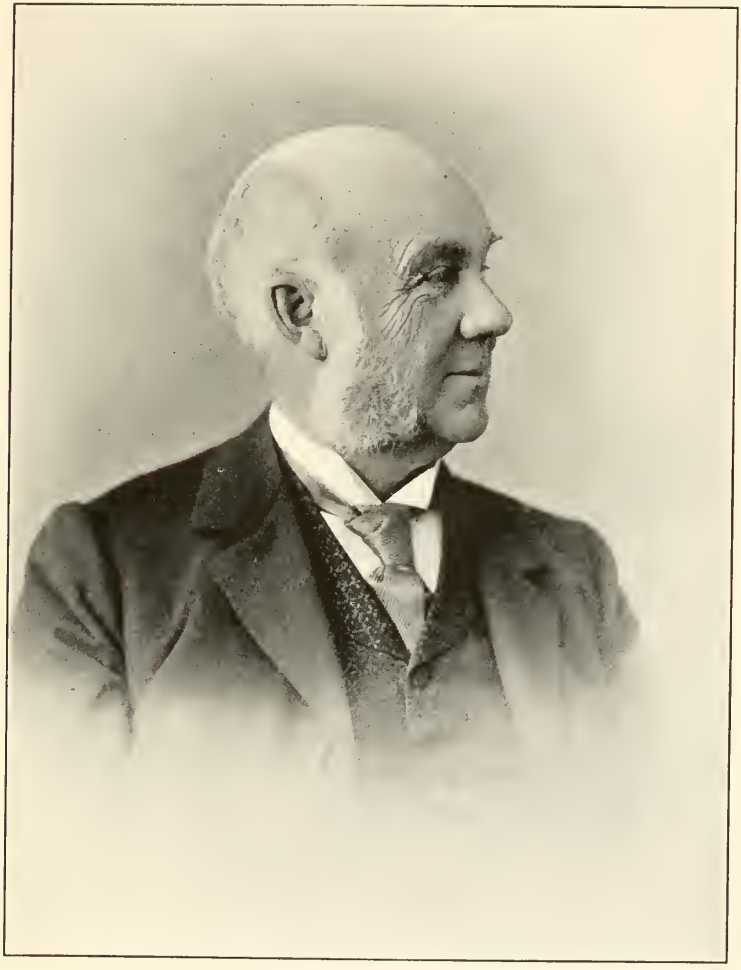

He died November 2, 1873, at Kennebunk, leaving seven children.

HARTLEY LORD, second son of William and Sarah (Cleaves) Lord,

Was born June 23, 1825, at Kennebunk, Me., the day that Lafayette, then the guest of the nation, passed through the town on his way to Portland. In his early youth Hartley Lord attended the schools and academy of Kennebunk. Later he was sent to Dummer Academy at Byfield, Mass., then to Nashua, N. H., and his studies were finished at Phillips Academy at Andover, Mass., in 1842–43.

After leaving school he went as passenger on voyages of barques owned by his family, — the "Finland" to New Orleans, and the "Bohemian" to Havana. Thus becoming interested in the life, he followed the sea for eight years, as first officer of the "Diantha," and then as master of the ship "Hartley," built expressly for his command by his father.

August 29, 1848, Hartley Lord married at Kennebunk, Sarah Elizabeth Hilton, daughter of Isaac and Elizabeth Ann (Foss) Hilton. In December of the same year he formed a partnership with Mr. George Callender of Boston, and for nine years the firm engaged in business as commission merchants with an office at 42 Central Wharf. He then went into business for himself, moving to 97 Commercial Street, and managed shipping largely owned in Kennebunk, and by the Lord family.

In December, 1850, he purchased a house on Walnut Park in Newton, where he lived until 1869, when he moved into Boston.

His brother Henry Clay Lord joined him in 1861 under the firm name of Hartley Lord & Co., doing a commission business, first at 97 Commercial Street and afterwards at 12 Merchants Exchange on State Street, until 1866.

In 1867 Mr. Lord became interested in the manufacture of nets and seines, and associated with his brothers Robert W. and George W., under the firm name of H. & G. W. Lord, gradually enlarged this industry.

November 11, 1874, he married at Kennebunkport, as his second wife, Julia Maria Perkins, daughter of Charles C. Perkins, and soon afterwards moved from Boston to Kennebunk, where he became interested in developing the seashore property of Kennebunk and Kennebunkport.

He died November 6, 1912, at Kennebunk, aged 87 years.

Robert Waterston Lord, third son of William and Sarah (Cleaves) Lord,

Was born April 14, 1828, at Kennebunk. From the North Yarmouth (Maine) Academy he entered Bowdoin College, but withdrew at the end of his sophomore year to begin the study of mechanics upon practical lines, learning the machinist trade and working in cotton manufacturing plants at Gloucester City, N. J., and Holyoke, Mass.

In 1849 the California "Gold Fever" took him to the Pacific coast, where he remained six years and returning to Kennebunk, he studied carefully the industrial outlook of the locality with a view of entering that field of usefulness. In 1860, he and his brother, George W. Lord, engaged in the manufacture of twine, equipping a mill for that purpose at West Kennebunk under the firm name of R. W. Lord & Co., and laying the foundation of what proved to be a profitable business. Purchasing the interest of George W. Lord, the following year, his brother Hartley joined him in the same business, and in 1867 George W. again became a partner. The same year Robert W. became associated with the firm of H. & G. W. Lord of Boston, operating a twine and netting manufacturing plant in connection with the West Kennebunk factory. This business was carried on for more than forty-five years, when they disposed of both manufactories.

In 1877, Robert W. Lord became a director of the Ocean National Bank of Kennebunk, and from 1893 to the present time has served as its President. He has also been trustee of the Savings Bank, which position he still holds. He was President of this bank a number of years. He served in several civic and political offices and represented his district in the State Legislature at Augusta, for the years 1877–82–87, and in 1891 was a member of the State Senate. He is a Unitarian, a Republican, a Master Mason and a member of York Lodge.

On December 8, 1857, Mr. Lord was married to Mary Morse Mendum, daughter of Samuel and Mary (Kelly) Mendum of Kennebunk. They had three daughters: Sarah C. who married Edwin J. Cram; Elizabeth C. who married Archibald Finlayson; and Frances A. who married Augustus M. Lord.

Henry Clay Lord, son of William and Sarah (Cleaves) Lord, was born May 31, 1836, at Kennebunk. He went to Boston in 1856, and became a clerk in the house of George Callender & Co., commission merchants, at 43 Central Wharf, living at this time in Newton.

In 1861 he joined his brother Hartley, and under the firm name of Hartley Lord & Co., engaged in a commission business, first at 97 Commercial Street, and later at 12 Merchants Exchange on State Street, until 1866.

He married March 18, 1863, at Boston, Rebecca Jane Greenleaf, daughter of Gardner and Rebecca Jane (Douglas) Greenleaf. Soon after his marriage he spent some time in England and on the Continent, looking after the interests of owners of American ships which had been seized by Confederate privateers. He was very successful in this mission.

In 1869 he became a member of the firm of Holden, Allen & Lord, which later became Allen & Lord, insurance brokers. His home in Boston was at 10 Pinckney Street, then one of the pleasant residential streets of old Beacon Hill.

His wife died May 16, 1877, at Boston, and in 1879 he retired from active business, and some years later being in poor health moved to Vermont, where he made his home during the latter part of his life.

He died December 3, 1901, at St. Johnsbury.

WILL OF CAPT. TOBIAS LORD

In the name of God, amen.

I Tobias Lord of Arundel in the County of York & Commonwealth of Massachusetts gentleman, being weak in body but of a sound & perfect mind & memory, blessed Almighty God for the same do make & publish this my last will & testament in manner & form following, that is to say,

First. I give & bequeath unto my beloved wife Jane Lord, the use of my dwelling house except the Northeast room in the ell part thereof & the use of one half the barn during her natural life & also the field in the front of the house, which field adjoins the post road, as it is now fenced, & the use & improvement of one half the remainder of the whole farm, and I do also give to my said wife all the stock except as hereafter disposed of & all my farming utensils & tools, & also all debts now due to me, to her own use & benefit, and also all my household furniture during her natural life, and after her decease the said furniture to be divided equally between my three daughters, Jane Stone Lydia Kimball & Elizabeth Thompson, also I give my said wife liberty during her life to cut what firewood & fuel for her own use, that she shall want, & she is to maintain her proportion of the fence & the fencing to be cut from the land aforesaid.

Also I give & devise to my son Tobias & Samuel Lord my grandson the whole of my real estate at the decease of my said wife, to them & their heirs & assigns forever.

I do also give & bequeath to Daniel Lord my son the sum of three hundred & seventy five dollars to be paid by my surviving Executors at the decease of my said wife.

I also give & bequeath to my son Dominicus Lord the sum of three hundred & seventy five dollars, to be paid by my Executors Tobias & Samuel to the use of himself & family to be paid by instalments, thirty dollars per year, till the whole sum of three hundred & seventy five dollars is expended & paid. I also give & bequeath to my said son Dominicus the use of a cow & liberty to cut one load or ton of good hay on the farm, so long as my wife Jane shall see fit. I also give & bequeath my wearing apparel to my two sons Daniel and Dominicus to be equally divided between them.

I also give & bequeath to my daughter-in law Mary Lord, widow of my son Thomas deceased the use of the Northeast room in the ell part of the house, during the term of four years from my decease, & also the use of the one half the barn & farm excepting the field aforesaid given to my said wife, she keeping her proportion of the fences in repair for the term of four years aforesaid, providing she remains a widow that time & if she marries before, to cease at the time of her marriage & she is not left at liberty to transfer the use as aforesaid to any other person excepting for herself to live on & her children. I also give her liberty to cut five cords of wood per annum for four years aforesaid, during her widowhood, to be cut where my Executors shall see fit.

I also give & bequeath to my grandchildren & children of my son Thomas Lord, deceased, viz^t. David, Betty, Jane, Ann & Mary Lord the sum of three hundred dollars in equal proportions to be paid to them by my Executors Tobias & Samuel at the time that they shall respectively come of age, the boys at twenty one & girls at eighteen.

I also give to my grandson David one yoke of Steers, now coming in two years old. Also it is my will & request that my said Executors Tobias & Samuel pay to my said son Daniel, one half the sum aforesaid bequeathed to him in four years or at the time the said widow Mary Lord leaves the premises.

And lastly, as to all the rest, residue & remainder of all my personal estate, goods & chattels of what kind soever, I give and bequeath to my said beloved wife Jane Lord whom together with Tobias Lord my said son & Samuel Lord my grandson & son of Tobias Lord Junior, Executors of this my last will & testament hereby revoking all former wills by me made.

In witness whereof I have hereunto set my hand & seal the twenty fifth day of January in the year of our Lord eighteen hundred & five.

TOBIAS LORD. (SEAL)

N. B. The words "my grandson" & the words Tobias & Samuel were interlined before signing

Signed, sealed, published & declared by the above named, Tobias Lord, to be his last will & testament in the presence of us, who, at his request & in his presence have hereunto subscribed our names as witnesses to the same.

ANCESTORS AND DESCENDANTS

LIEUTENANT TOBIAS LORD

BY

CHARLES EDWARD LORD

PRIVATELY PRINTED

1913

RESIDENCE OF LIEUTENANT TOBIAS LORD

LORD GENEALOGY

On the first page of this Circular appears the title-page of a volume just completed, which is devoted to a Genealogy of the Descendants of Lieutenant Tobias Lord, of Kennebunkport, Maine, through his two wives, — Mehitable Scammon, and Hephzibah Conant; at the same time tracing his ancestry to Nathan Lord, the Immigrant, who was in Kittery, Maine, in 1652. The lines of descent of his first wife from Humphrey Scammon, Elder William Brewster, of the "Mayflower," and Governor Thomas Prence; and of his second wife from Roger Conant, Governor of the Massachusetts Colony at Cape Ann, 1624–26, the Woodbury, Boardman and Dodge families, are given. To those are added full Biographic Notes of many prominent members of the family of the older generations, in both lines of descent, and also in collateral ancestral lines, including beside those mentioned above, Governer Hinckley of Plymouth Colony, the Wheelwrights, Littlefields, and many others, with Wills and Inventories.

It is illustrated with about seventy engravings, — portraits, maps, and pictures of some of the famous sailing vessels built and launched at Kennebunk by members of the family in the palmy days of American commerce. This volume is printed on the heavier grade of laid and tinted "Register" paper, and in only a very limited edition (200 copies), each copy being numbered. Specially bound in cloth, gilt top and uncut, and enclosed in case.

Price, $5.00 net. Sent on receipt of check in Boston or New York Funds, or P. O. Money Order. The book will be forwarded (express collect). If sent by mail, add twenty-four cents to above.

CHARLES E. LORD,

24 Milk Street, Boston.
